SPANISH RULER MAY FLEE LAND AS REBELS GAIN

Alfonso Ready to Quit, London Hears; Air Attack Fails.

FRANCO AND 2 OTHERS PRISONERS IN LISBON

Mutiny at Madrid Crushed; Refugees Begin Exodus at Martial Law.

London (Tuesday), Dec. 16 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—A dispatch received here early this morning by the Daily Mail from its Paris correspondent says:

"Information received in official quarters regarding the revolutionary outbreak in Spain is that the rebellion is gaining the upper hand and that the king may leave Madrid tomorrow."

European capitals could learn little in the last 24 hours about what was actually going on across the Spanish border because of the energy with which the censors clamped down the lid on all outgoing messages. Telephones as well as telegraphs were silent except what the government permitted to pass.

King Alfonso Prepared.

London, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Friends of King Alfonso of Spain here said today he was probably among those least surprised at the upheaval in his own country since he had realized for years that he might at any time have to face such an eventuality and was prepared for it.

Because of this knowledge, it is said, his queen, who is a member of the English royal family, has insisted that as far as possible some British relative or a close friend from the homeland be with her always in Madrid.

The king is said to be not wealthy, but it is understood by his friends here he has made such provisions as were possible to provide for his family outside of Spain if and when a crash came.

Foreign Legion Summoned.

Gibraltar, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The Spanish government has called part of the famous Spanish Foreign Legion out of Morocco to combat the revolutionary spirit at home.

Toulouse, France, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Spanish refugees flying before the revolutionary unrest assert that the situation in their country is critical, not only for the government but the monarchy.

They reported that a general strike broke out today in several large industrial centers and the movement was expected to spread through the whole peninsula tomorrow.

Railroads into Spain through Aix-Les-Thermes and Canfranc are closely guarded. NoN freight is coming out of the country.

Numerous fugitives are reported hiding around various passes in the Pyrenees, notably in the regions of Oloron, St. Girons and Bourgmadame.

Revolt Quickly Crushed.

Madrid, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—A revolt of Spanish airmen ended disastrously today—in Madrid this morning and in Portugal tonight.

The revolt is that Maj. Ramon Franco, stormiest figure in Spanish aviation, and several companions were closely guarded prisoners in Lisbon tonight after they had fled Madrid in four airplanes this morning as stern government action frustrated their plot.

All Spain, meanwhile, was declared under martial law.

Since a revolt broke at the northern city of Jaca last Friday and a rebel force was crushed in a battle Saturday, Franco's participation in the revolutionary unrest was widely rumored, but not confirmed. Last month the noted flier, who had been imprisoned for writing articles criticising the government's aviation policy, escaped from prison and had been sought everywhere.

At 8 o'clock this morning he appeared at Cuatro Vientos Airdrome, the field of the four winds, and what

Wounds Are Fatal To Second Robber

Walter Moran Succumbs After Pistol Battle With Policemen.

Another yeggman who shot it out with police on Sunday night while trying to burglarize a store, died last night in Freedmen's Hospital from his wounds.

He was Walter Moran, 50 years old, of Pittsburgh, Pa., who with James Powers, 60 years old, fought a gun battle with Patrolmen T. C. Lewis and I. L. Murphy, when they were caught in the act of breaking into the American Stores Company store at 1235 Fourteenth street. Powers was killed instantly.

Powers was known to Moran as "Harris," but fingerprints at the Department of Justice label him a veteran yeggman who had served more than 20 years in various prisons for safecracking and robbery. Moran also had a long criminal record.

Poincare's Condition Is Reported Critical

Partial Paralysis Said to Have Developed in Statesman.

Paris, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The condition of Raymond Poincare was worse tonight, and friends were apprehensive as the 70-year-old statesman of France fought an illness which one report said had developed into partial paralysis.

Late today Dr. Louis Boidin, who had visited M. Poincare earlier in the day, was hastily summoned again. As he entered the war president's little house on Marbeau avenue, at the edge of Paris, he told newspaper men:

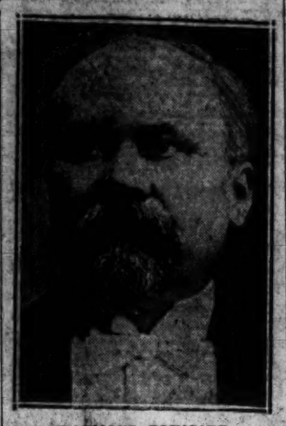
"Do not expect any declaration from me. I shall not come out again, as I am remaining overnight."

Dr. Boidin's statement was taken to mean that former President Poincare's condition was indeed serious.

A consultation of several professors and doctors which was to have been held at 7 p. m. was postponed, and later it was reported the meeting would be held at midnight.

It was learned tonight that M. Poincare complained of feeling ill first on December 4, when he sat in the Senate during the session in which the Tardieu cabinet was overthrown. During a long meeting he remained in the deliberations room in an excessively heated atmosphere, and, when he emerged, complained to a friend of being chilled.

"These sittings are very tiring," he told the friend, "yet they want me to resume the duties of the premiership when I can hardly weather one sitting in the Senate."



RAYMOND POINCARE.

A bed has been reserved in a private clinic to which M. Poincare may be taken if the doctors consider it advisable and if the patient is strong enough to be transported.

Late tonight his condition was reported to be unchanged. A professor who had been called into consultation by Dr. Boidin departed with a large instrument case but would make no statement. The house was closed for the night and M. Andre Tardieu, who came later, rang the bell several times in vain.

PITTS TAKES STAND AND DENIES CHARGES

TELLS OF OPERATIONS

Mounting the witness stand early yesterday morning, G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co., steadfastly denied throughout the day any criminal implication in the acts charged to himself and his two codefendants by the Government. Jointly on trial with him on the conspiracy count in District Supreme Court are C. Albert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., both former vice presidents of the company.

Not only did Mr. Pitts, who has been most prominently mentioned of the three defendants, categorically deny charges that he had conspired with the two other former officers to embezzle company funds and to conceal important records of the firm, but under direct questioning by Wilton J. Lambert, defense attorney, Mr. Pitts took 61 items of the 95 in the Government's bill of particulars, involving more than $700,000, and detailed the source of each item and its disposition.

Invariably, he ended his expositions with the statement, "I received the money."

Before taking up the items in the bill of particulars, Mr. Pitts, under questioning by Mr. Lambert, vigorously denied any criminality in concealing or destroying records of the company. He stated that employes had begun to complain about the crowded condition of the vaults, so he had his own personal records removed to his apartment at the Jefferson, where he went through them to remove any documents of importance to him, then had the balance taken back to the Smith Building, where they were burned. The removal operations were conducted at night, he said, because there was no rear entrance to the building and he wished to conduct the operation without interfering with business.

"Did you ever instruct any one to pull or take out checks from the files?" Mr. Lambert asked him.

"I did not," he emphatically replied.

EXCURSION DISASTER INQUIRIES ARE BEGUN

HEROIC ACTS REPORTED

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Federal and State investigations into the burning and sinking last night of the excursion boat Eureka II were ordered today as authorities sought to establish definitely a list of dead, missing and rescued persons.

Three were known to be dead and three were reported missing. Various checks of the survivors generally listed 135, with 114 identified, others left rescue boats without giving their names to checkers at the various docks. The exact number aboard was not known, as no passenger list was kept by the owners.

The three persons reported missing, and not located tonight, were Frank J. Keefe, Providence, R. I.; J. S. Haig, Pomona, Calif., and Mrs. Mary Holler, Milwaukee.

Difficulty was encountered in establishing the number of persons who leaped frantically into the sea 15 miles below here in an attempt to save their lives as the vessel burned.

A total of 135 passengers and crew members, given last night by Capt. Wilfred I. Stiles, of the ill-fated excursion boat, was changed by him today to 121 passengers, a crew of 5, and 2 women relatives of the crew. This was less than the total number of 141 dead, missing and survivors reported by rescue boats and other sources.

Federal investigation into the tragedy was set for tomorrow.

Justice of the Peace Thomas S. Ferguson scheduled for Wednesday an inquest into the death of the three persons, H. C. Grimm, 60, McCook, Nebr.; Mrs. Mamie Sawyer, 45, Miami, passengers, and Clarence Vine, 30, Haverhill, Mass., deck hand.

Rescue vessels cruised the waters where the Eureka II sank without avail today as they sought trace of bodies or stranded survivors.

As quiet replaced excitement today additional tales of heroism of the passengers and crew were told.

Allen Trafford Klots, of New York, Introduced as Special Assistant to Secretary of State; Is Member of Chief's Law Firm.

The creation of a new post in the Government service—that of "special assistant to the Secretary of State"—was announced yesterday by Secretary Henry L. Stimson.

At the same time, Secretary Stimson introduced to newspapermen the man he has appointed to that post. He is Allen Trafford Klots, 41-year-old lawyer, of New York.

The appointment reunites an old team. Mr. Klots has been with Stimson's New York law firm ever since he left Yale in 1913. Starting out as a clerk, he was made a partner in the firm nine years ago. For many years, it was his job to prepare the cases which Stimson would try in the courts.

He had a somewhat analagous position in the World War. Stimson was in command of the 305th Regiment of Field Artillery, and Klots was his adjutant. In France, Klots was thrice wounded.

In his new role as special assistant to the Secretary of State, Mr. Klots will be pretty much like the junior member of a law firm. It will be his job to prepare "cases" for Secretary Stimson; that is, to do research work and provide the Secretary with all the information available on matters in which the latter may be interested.

Thus far Secretary Stimson, a stickler for thoroughness, has been doing much of the research work himself.

The post which Mr. Klots will oc-

ELEVEN JURORS CHOSEN TO SIT IN BUSH DEATH

Panel Exhausted and Tentative Selection May Be Upset.

CARNELL, MAHONEY FACE MURDER COUNT

M'Cay Gets Severance in Case in Which Bus Line Head Was Shot.

Eleven tentative jurors to try William J. Carnell and Frank Mahoney on a charge of first-degree murder in connection with the death of Louis Bush, bus line head, had been selected yesterday when Justice Peyton Gordon adjourned his branch of District Supreme Court for the day.

It was unlikely, however, that all eleven of the jurors would remain and work of selecting the jury is expected to occupy the attention of the court until noon today, if not longer.

Thirty-two prospective jurors were excused, 21 of them for cause, 8 by the defense and 3 by the Government. Both the Government and the defense had 20 challenges when the case was begun.

Justice Gordon himself examined all the jurors, questioning each as to his belief in capital punishment, whether he had read about the case, whether he had formed an opinion, and whether he knew the defendants, the slain man or any of the opposing counsel.

Courtroom Jammed.

The courtroom was jammed and all spectators seemed to be keenly interested in the proceedings.

Work of selecting the jury was halted because of exhaustion of all immediately available panels. No new jurors will be called at this time, and when court resumes today twelve additional talesmen, who were out on a jury in another criminal case, will be available for questioning.

Carnell and Mahoney are on trial on an indictment which also named William C. McKay. The latter, however, was granted a severance, and has been called by the Government as one of its 32 witnesses. Mrs. Mary Sullivan, 60-year-old mother of Carnell, is another witness on the government list.

Mahoney is going on trial under objection of his counsel, Justice Gordon having refused a plea for separate trial, although it was charged the man would be prejudiced by being tried with Carnell.

Mr. Bush was shot on the night of October 6 in the garage in the rear of his home when he sought to park his automobile. He died three days later, although at first his wounds were not believed to be of a fatal nature.

Police, who went to work on the case immediately after the shooting, sent out descriptions of Carnell and Mahoney, and the latter was promptly arrested in Pittsburgh. Carnell was apprehended several days ago and

ROVING PATROL PROTECTS CITY AGAINST BOMBS

Police Are Mobilized in Danville Following Three Blasts.

DYNAMITE WRECKS MAGISTRATE'S HOME

Family of Justice Who Tried Mill Strikers Escapes Without Injury.

Danville, Va., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Police maintained roving patrols in the outer sections of Schoolfield tonight to supplement the more centrally located military patrols as a guard against further dynamiting of the dwellings of nonunion workers.

Explosives this morning partly wrecked the home of Magistrate R. S. Pitts, police justice at Schoolfield, who has tried a number of cases since the strike began. The explosive, believed by police to have been a stick of dynamite, was set off under the floor of the front porch—near the door. The blast demolished the framework of the entrance, knocked a hole 3 feet wide in the floor and scattered pieces of timber and glass over the living room. No one was hurt.

Saw Cars Drive Away.

The occupants of the house were Mr. and Mrs. Pitts and two grandchildren, Philip, 10, and Patricia, 6. The two children slept through the explosion, but the magistrate and his wife had already awakened. R. S. Pitts, jr., son of Magistrate Pitts, who lives next door, said he saw two automobiles drive away just after the explosion.

Last night a filling station with dwelling rooms attached was dynamited, but the charge did little damage and no one was hurt. The building was occupied by Ted Campbell, a boarder, and a nonunion worker. The building is located several miles from Schoolfield, in North Carolina.

Saturday night the home of R. L. Edwards, a nonunion mill worker, was damaged slightly by a bomb believed to have been dynamite. The floor of the bedroom occupied by R. L. Edwards and his wife was damaged, though neither was injured.

Police Are Mobilized.

No disorder or gathering of crowds attended the opening of the gates of the Riverside and Dan River mills this morning, characterized by union leaders as being a crucial day of the strike as a result of the mill management's invitation for former employes to return to work. Pickets estimated the total number of workers entering the mills at 1,272. The mill management would make no estimate other than to say the situation was about the same as it was last week.

Danville city police mustered for a sudden call about noon today following a "tip" there would be a demonstration at one of the mills in the city. Police went to the scene, but there was no gathering of a crowd and no disorders.

Washington Cheers Toy Fund to Victory

Race to Give Every Child in Capital Gift Only 6 Days From Goal.

Down the stretch! The Post's Fund to spread Christmas cheer among all the needy children of the Capital is rushing toward the finish line, which is Sunday. The campaign is gathering momentum as it speeds along to the judges' stand, with hundreds of Washington residents cheering it on to victory through their contributions.

It has been a great race so far and indications are that the fund will cross the wire in front—enough in front to assure every child a few toys, trinkets and candy, to make Christmas to them what it is to children in homes where business and financial difficulties have not beset the heads of the families.

While many have done their share to help the Toy Fund reach a total sufficient to buy plenty of Christmas cheer for the youngsters, there are many who have not. It is to these that The Post makes its appeal for contributions, no matter how large or how small, to send the fund up to a great sum which will positively guarantee the absence of "empty stockings" in Washington homes.

Yesterday morning's story of the boy who went into the store which advertised "Presents for everyone" seeking his present, brought in many contributions from persons who wanted to help boys and girls in similar plights. Then, too, there were contributions from grown-ups who wanted to match the gifts

Climbing steadily toward the $2,000 mark, The Post's Christmas Fund yesterday stood at $1,332.21, through contributions totaling $116.75 for the day. Only six days remain in which to help the needy children, so send your share today. The standing:

HOUSE BLOCKS EFFORT OF HOOVER CHIEFS FOR LOWER DROUGHT BILL

Sixteen Republicans Join Democrats to Stop Halving Fund.

PLAN OF PRESIDENT DEFENDED IN SENATE

(Associated Press.)

Holding their own lines rigid, the House Democrats separated enough Republican stragglers from the majority yesterday to beat back an attempt by administration leaders to put an unaltered $30,000,000 drought-relief program through that branch in preference to the Senate's $60,000,000 fund.

By 205 to 189 the move to suspend rules and pass the House measure was defeated, it requiring a two-thirds of those voting to secure passage.

The dispute was the most spectacular of this session in the House. Led by Representative Garner, of Texas, the Democrats lost only one vote—Black, of New York—to the Republicans, while sixteen Republicans and the lone Farmer-Labor—Kvale, of Minnesota—joined them. Seventy-one either failed to vote or were paired.

Hoover Program Defended.

Although blocked in their attempt to prevent a vote on the Senate's $60,000,000 proposal, the Republicans plan to seek action again under a more liberal procedure later in the week.

The House agriculture committee now proposes to consider the Senate proposal with a view to attempting to eliminate the provision for loans for food and clothing, to which the administration objects.

Meanwhile, the position of the administration for a $25,000,000 limitation came up for debate in the Senate, where the $60,000,000 was voted last week without even a record vote.

In a defense of President Hoover's relief program Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, asserted the right of Mr. Hoover to stand by the Budget Bureau's recommendation for $25,000,000 without bringing abuse on his head. He also defended the right of the Senate to fix its own figure, which it did.

The discussion brought into action Chairman McNary, of the Senate Agriculture Committee, and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader who had sponsored the $60,000,000 appropriation.

$60,000,000 Explained.

Mr. McNary said a representative of the Secretary of Agriculture had brought to him the proposal for a $60,000,000 drought relief bill. He added:

"I believe the President had reason to know what his right hand was doing and I introduced the legislation."

Two days later, McNary told the Senate, the Budget Bureau sent up a bill for $25,000,000 for drought relief without a word of explanation. He said the committee considered the proposals and unanimously agreed to the $60,000,000 figure.

Senator Robinson in reply to a question of Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, added that President Hoover's own drought relief commission had recommended the $60,000,000 sum.

Mr. Watson said the local headquarters of the Red Cross in every state and county in the country have ample funds to meet every emergency.

"I talked with Judge Payne (John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross) this morning, and he said he was prepared to make the statement the Red Cross can care for all drought sufferers with funds in its treasury," Watson said.

In view of the Red Cross survey, Mr. Watson continued, the President felt amply justified in making a recommendation of $25,000,000 for drought relief.

Debate in the House was limited under the procedure by which the measure was brought up, but the

Calvin Coolidge

Says: Presentation of a Nobel prize to Sinclair Lewis has aroused considerable discussion. Whether his books will survive as literature remains to be seen. Certainly he has been a keen, critical and witty reporter of certain phases of our life. Being critical, he has many readers. He has found favor in some foreign quarters because they like to believe our life is as he represents it. Human nature not only abroad but at home tends to caricature everything that is foreign.

No necessity exists for becoming excited. What is of importance is not what some writer represents us to be, but what we really are. We have survived and profited by criticism. We have many kinds of people and many phases of life. No writer can tread them all. Judging by our progress and the position we hold, our average is fairly satisfactory. We do not have to obtrude ourselves into the affairs of other people. The world waits in our anteroom for our advice and assistance. The name Mr. Lewis gives us is unimportant. The records of our deeds will surpass all books.

SENATORS RESTORE PAY BILL INCREASES

Chamber Also Eliminates Wood Amendment to Restrict Benefits.

DISTRICT NOT FAVORED

Salary increases recommended by President Hoover to bring underaverage salaries of employes in the Treasury and Post Office Departments up to the average provided in the classification law were put back in the annual Treasury-Post Office appropriation bill by the Senate yesterday.

The Senate also eliminated the so-called Wood amendment, which would have prohibited employes from getting even such increases as might be available due to deaths, resignations or other severances from the government service.

The action was taken on recommendation of the appropriations subcommittee, of which Senator Lawrence Phipps (Republican), of Colorado, is chairman.

Senator Phipps, in charge of the appropriation bill on the Senate floor, told his colleagues that the action of the appropriations committee had been unanimous in striking the Wood amendment out and putting back in the bill the increased appropriations recommended by the President partially to eliminate existing discrepancies in pay of employes.

There was not much debate on the subject. Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, mentioned the increases in pay approved for government employes by Congress in recent years, and questioned Senator Phipps about the high-salaried government employes getting most of the moneys appropriated to equalize salaries.

"When the Brookhart bill was under consideration here it was developed that those Government employes who were getting the largest salaries were being unduly favored in the distribution of moneys for salaries," Senator King said. "Can the senator from Colorado tell us whether this condition has been remedied or whether this simply will be a repetition of what has happened in the past?"

Subsequently Senator Phipps told

BILL TO AID JOBLESS BACK IN CONFERENCE

Hoover's $116,000,000 Plan Attacked and Defended by Senators.

PARTISANSHIP IS DECRIED

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's emergency relief program was defended and challenged in the Senate yesterday in an outburst of debate following a revolt against the conference agreement on the emergency $116,000,000 construction appropriation.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, came to the defense of the President with an appeal for nonpartisan consideration of emergency measures. He quoted Red Cross and unemployment commission officials in declaring the Hoover policies adequate to meet the situation.

Senator La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, challenged the adequacy of this program, read telegrams from labor officials in more than a score of cities to support his contention, and finally called for a separate congressional study of the situation and a direct appropriation to meet distress if necessary.

While Mr. Watson denied any breakdown in the promise of the leaders of the two parties for cooperation on emergency bills, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, encountered opposition in his party early in the day when he announced willingness in the interests of speed, to give up an amendment to the $116,000,000 appropriation taking away from the President the right to use the money as he saw fit.

Senators Dill, of Washington, and McKellar, of Tennessee, both Democrats, announced they would not yield on this point. Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, entered a protest against the proposal of the conferees to eliminate his amendment requiring that local labor be employed.

Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, appealed to the objectors not to bind the Senate and House conferees, despite their "unauthorized" tentative agreement, making a plea of "for God's sake let's get some-

U. S.-Canada Plan Air Mail And Trade Route to Orient

Direct Line to Pass Through Alaska and Soviet Russia, According to Announcement by Assistant Postmaster General Glover.

(Associated Press.)

A direct air mail and trade route to China and Japan through Alaska and Soviet Russia is the next big objective of the Postoffice Department.

Mutual operation of this route by the United States and Canada is the aim.

This information, together with plans for the immediate future establishment of a Winnipeg-Twin Cities air line, was brought back to Washington yesterday by Assistant Postmaster General Glover from Canadian air mail negotiations.

Mr. Glover reported the postoffice departments of both the United States and Canada had given the proposed line to the Far East careful study and had agreed they had no intention to "stand idly by and permit this opportunity for a direct hookup with the Far East to be supplied by any other countries."

Such a route, Mr. Glover said, would be in keeping with the worldwide trend of the air mail, now that regular transatlantic service is being definitely contemplated.

Already, he said, the proposed line up the MacKenzie River, through Alaska, and across the Behring Strait into Soviet Russia, has been flown many times experimentally.

The mass of mail available for such a run, he contended, would justify its establishment, since letters from

Debate on Supplying Food.

Representative Purnell, of Indiana, led the Republican drive against the Senate measure saying he opposed "buying food for human beings," rather than the amount of money authorized.

"If we buy food for the farmers, there is no reason why we should not buy for every unemployed man in the United States," he said.

Referring to Mr. Purnell's remarks, Mr. Garner said:

"We are to be congratulated upon one thing and that is that the spokesman for the Republican side has conceded that $60,000,000 will be included in the bill. I think we have made some progress over the condition last week."

The Texan said he could increase the surtax on individual incomes of over $100,000 net income, 5 per cent and get $108,000,000.

"Every man and woman in this country," he said, "who has an income in excess of $100,000 ought to be willing at a time like this to contribute something to help the poor."

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the Republican leader, said the Red Cross and other relief agencies were capable of taking care of the food wants of the farmers, while Congress would be expected to make equal provisions for unemployed in industrial areas should the Senate proposal be accepted.

DISTRICT'S POLICE HIGHLY LAUDED TO TRADE COMMITTEE

"TENDENCY TO EXPLOIT" ONE MAN'S SLIP RAPPED

House Member Pledges to Support Projects for City's Advancement.

Praise for Washington's "graftless and efficient" police department all but monopolized a meeting of the Board of Trade's public order committee in the Raleigh Hotel last night. The speakers included United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, District Commissioner Herbert C. Crosby, Claude Owen and Capt. Raymond Montgomery, of the park police.

Asserting that "no more honest and efficient police force could be found in any city of the world," Mr. Rover rapped "a passing tendency to exploit the case of one policeman who gets drunk, while the good work of 1,400 others is overlooked."

He cited the arrest of suspects in the Bush murder, and those in the recent "milk poisoning" case as examples of the good work that Maj. Pratt's force is accomplishing. "I receive hundreds of anonymous letters and tips about dishonesty among policemen," he said, "but in practically every case no facts can be found to substantiate the charges. I ask that you accord policemen the same privileges that you give a criminal. Withhold judgment until you have the facts presented."

Speeding Up of Cases Cited.

In discussing progress made in ridding District courts of congestion he said that through a policy of demanding concrete facts before issuing warrants his office had materially speeded up court machinery and advanced the ends of justice. Where once it was common to start a month with 350 or more minor cases pending in the miscellaneous branch of the Police Court, he said, not more than about 70 cases were now pending when the new month opens. Similar progress has been achieved in the Supreme Court, and the division that handles prohibition violations, he added.

Declaring that speedy apprehension nad speedy trial were fundamental to checking crime, Mr. Rover said "the citizen has as important a role to play in this work as the police force or the prosecutors, and that is conscientious jury service."

"I again urge you," he concluded, "to have faith in your officials and not to judge them too hastily. If I had the money that I have been said to have accepted as bribes I would own five or six large hotels."

Need for Driving Courtesy Cited.

The need for courtesy between motorists and especially between local drivers and tourists, was stressed in a report submitted by Claude Owen. "Men who are gentlemen when they are on rubber heels too often forget their breeding when they are on rubber tires," he said.

Capt. Montgomery gave an exhaustive report on the work of the Park police, tracing this department's development from the time when it included only two men.

A brief argument over a drastic vagrancy law that the committee approved nearly a year ago was ended when Matthew O'Brien withdrew a motion to have the organization rescind its approval.

Representative Hall, of Indiana, a member of the House District committee, pledged his efforts to all reasonable projects for the advancement of the city, and Commissioner Crosby expressed his appreciation for the bouquets tossed at the police department.

Maryland Court Clerk Again Sworn in Office

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 15.—James A. Young, Democrat, formerly of Cumberland, reelected clerk of the Maryland Court of Appeals at the November election, today took the oath of office before Gov. Albert C. Ritchie.

Mr. Young is entering upon his third term in the post. He was first elected in 1923 for a three-year term; again in 1926 for four years when the fewer elections law became operative, and last month for a like period. Mr. Young announced the reappointment of all of the clerical staff of the office, headed by R. Lee Waller, chief deputy.

U. S.-CANADA PLAN AIR LINE TO ORIENT

Great Britain to the Far East would reach China and Japan two weeks earlier thereby.

Mr. Glover said the extreme cold would not deter aviators.

"Canada is now flying the mails at 20 degrees below zero when there's 6 feet of snow on the ground with more night flying, less delays, than we have. There's your answer," said Mr. Glover.

He added that a great number of small packages also would be sent to the Orient by air mail.

The Winnipeg-Twin Cities line, Mr. Glover promised, would start "just as soon as the council of the Canadian Parliament gives the project its approval."

A 11,000-mile route, reaching from Buenos Aires to "within a snowball toss to the North Pole" would thus be completed, he said.

Christmas Eve Holiday Given Federal Employes

Presidential Order Establishes Full Day Off for All Government Workers in District With Exception of Those Especially Needed for Duty.

The order follows:

"It is hereby ordered that the several executive departments and independent Government establishments in the District of Columbia, including the Government Printing Office and the Navy Yard and stations, be closed on Wednesday, December 24, 1930, and all clerks and other employes in the Federal service in the District of Columbia, except those who may for special public reasons be excepted from the provisions of this order, or whose absence from duty would be inconsistent with the provisions of existing law, are hereby excused from duty on that day.

"This order is not to be deemed as establishing a precedent."

In granting the 70,000 or more Federal workers here a full day off on Christmas Eve, President Hoover is continuing a policy that was inaugurated in the last five years. At one time, the employes were granted only a half day off on Christmas Eve.

The President's order affects only Federal workers. The Commissioners, however, are expected to issue an order today granting the holiday to employes of the District government.

It has always been the practice of the Commissioners to grant to District employes whatever holidays are granted to Federal employes.

As the wrangling continued, Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee, promised not to enter the tentative agreement with the House until he had given the Senate another chance to discuss the amendments. So the emergency appropriation measure was back in conference last night.

Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, joined with LaFollette in challenging Senator Watson's speech, which constituted the first formal defense of the administration's program in the rebellious Senate.

"Never before in the history of this or any other land," asserted Mr. Watson, "have a competent and able people sprung to the aid of fellow sufferers as they have now. And so, the Government is in a position to state that we are not without funds to meet conditions."

He quoted Col. Arthur Woods, of the President's employment commission, as stating that with one or two exceptions the cities were meeting their own problems. He recalled bipartisan support of the Government during the war and urged it again now in a situation which he described as secondary only to war.

Hoover Prediction Recalled.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, wanted to know why Col. Woods had not submitted his report to the Senate in response to the resolution of Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota. Mr. Watson said he did not know, but that he had talked personally to Col. Woods.

Mr. Caraway insisted that more than 1,000,000 persons in 15 States were destitute and said the Red Cross could not help them in many instances.

When Mr. Watson expressed confidence in the ability of President Hoover to find out the actual conditions and insist upon meeting them, Mr. LaFollette recalled that Mr. Hoover last March predicted conditions would be improved within 60 days. He said he cited this to show that the President was not "an infallible guide" on this problem.

"The policy of this administration ever since the stock market crash," continued Mr. LaFollette, "has been to minimize and play down this situation. The time has come to quit trying to talk the people out of this and to ascertain the facts."

LaFollette Backs Walsh.

Asked by Senator Hastings (Republican), Delaware, what specific remedy he proposed, Mr. LaFollette again urged the inquiry he proposed and added that he favored the bill of Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, proposing a direct appropriation of $100,000,000 to share with cities and States the cost of relief work.

"It wasn't a dole," said Mr. LaFollette, "when Herbert Hoover asked $100,000,000 in 1920 to feed the starving women and children of Europe. It wasn't a dole when we appropriated $20,000,000 to feed the starving of Russia."

The showdown on the resolution of Senator LaFollette declaring the Senate to favor adequate relief for human suffering over the considerations of the wealthy income taxpayers failed to materialize.

After debate on unemployment had consumed most of the time available for discussion of the resolution, Senator LaFollette asked for its postponement.

Marriage Annulment Granted Young Woman

A decree annulling the marriage of Miss Theodore E. Stoner, of Bradley Hill, Md., to Harry Field, Government clerk, of H street, near Seventeenth street northwest, was awarded yesterday by Judge Robert B. Peter in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville.

In her petition and in testimony before Special Examiner Thomas M. Anderson, of Rockville, the young woman, who is 23 years old, told the court that because of her nervous condition she had had no realization of the contract she was entering into and that she had left her husband after the ceremony and had not lived with him since. She was represented by Attorneys Robert B. Peter, jr., of Rockville, and Leonard A. Block, of Washington.

NEW SPANISH REVOLT QUICKLY SUPPRESSED

is considered the first aviation revolt in history began.

Mechanics and other members of the staff were coming on duty at that time and were ordered to assemble on the parade grounds, where they were harangued by their officers and urged to join the republic which had just been proclaimed. All who joined the movement—about 1,000—were given rifles and ammunition, although many had never used such a weapon before, and those who refused were locked in a hangar.

Six planes were wheeled out and their wings were painted red by part of the rebels, while others disarmed the guards over the arsenal and filled a motor truck with bombs which later were placed on part of the machines.

Then several of the ships began a flight over Madrid, dropping pamphlets which urged troops to revolt and threatened to bomb their barracks if they did not.

Communications Severed.

Other mutineers severed all communications between the aviation field and the capital and seized the government wireless station near the airdrome, imprisoning the manager in charge. Through this medium they announced to the world that a revolution was on and that a republic had been proclaimed.

The government acted speedily. The Leon regiment of 2,000 men, under Gen. Orgaz, was dispatched to round up the mutineers, while the government road and camp artillery began a bombardment and loyal army aircraft took over the ships piloted by rebels. In all, said an official statement, about 5,000 troops were assembled to crush the uprising.

There were few or no casualties, since the government said it wished only to intimidate the rebels, but after shells had spurted shrapnel dust and gravel over the airdrome for half an hour a white flag shot to the top of the airdrome and the rebellion at that point was ended.

Mutineers Surrender.

Many of the mutineers surrendered when the first shells fell and others waited until they saw the gleaming bayonets of the infantry approaching.

In the meanwhile the pamphlet-spreading planes, in one of which Franco held the stick, saw what had happened to those on the ground and four machines speedily set a westward course for Portugal.

Late today Franco and the companions in his plane, Capt. Reyes and Mechanic Rada, landed at Averso Airdrome, 15 miles from Lisbon.

They made a bold bid for freedom, sprinting for the adjacent heavy woods, but Portuguese authorities closed in on them and they surrendered to Lieut. Prito Paise, of the Portuguese Air Service.

In the meantime the three other fleeing ships came down. One landed at Gouvea and the pilot, Capt. Pastor, surrendered to officials there. Another, carrying a pilot and Gen. Quiepo Dellano, crashed at Moita and the occupants were slightly injured. The fourth plane landed at Amadhra and Capt. Roa, its occupant, also surrendered.

Leaders Held Captive.

All were taken to Lisbon under escort, say dispatches from that city. Maj. Franco was interviewed at the war office before being held under guard with the others.

As night closed in upon Madrid the city was treated to another leaflet bombardment. But this time the pamphlets were dropped by loyal aviators and proclaimed the collapse of the revolutionary movement.

Vigorous precautions were taken, nevertheless, and late tonight a strong force of cavalry occupied Getafe Airdrome to prevent any extension of the revolt spirit there.

(Associated Press.)

The Spanish Embassy here was informed by its foreign office last night that the revolutionary disturbances in that country had been ended and that complete tranquillity prevailed.

The cablegram said three of the leaders of the uprising, including Ramon Franco, the Spanish ace whose whereabouts have occasioned so much concern of late, had escaped in airplanes.

GUILTY PLEAS MAKE RECORD FOR COURT

ONLY 40 CASES PENDING

A Police Court record was established yesterday when 16 persons charged with violating the national prohibition law pleaded guilty before Judges Isaac R. Hitt and Robert E. Mattingly.

Assistant United States Attorneys David A. Hart and Wilbur Baughman, in charge of liquor prosecutions, said that because of the pleas the number of pending liquor cases is the smallest since prohibition became a law. Only 40 cases were pending at the close of yesterday's session.

Both Mr. Hart and Mr. Baughman declared that two years ago there were more than 300 cases pending at one time, and stated that great progress has been made in clearing the docket through trying cases two weeks after jury trials are demanded.

This new system, the prosecutors believe, has led to the many pleas of guilty, persons preferring to throw themselves on the mercy of the court rather than demand a jury trial, receive a quick hearing and then suffer a severe penalty, if convicted. In the past, however, jury trials were demanded because they were delayed several months, during which witnesses might leave town and evidence be lost or destroyed.

Two of those sentenced were unable to pay $500 fines and went to jail.

Norman Stevenson, Negro, 37 years old, was committed for 45 days after pleading guilty to possession of 35 half-gallons of whisky. He was arrested in a raid made on an informer's warrant.

Paddie Jones, 37-year-old Negro, went to jail for 30 days following a guilty plea to a charge of possessing liquor at a house on New York avenue northwest near Third street.

Al Capone's Bodyguard Faces Deportation

Chicago, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Tony "Mops" Volpe, reputed bodyguard for Al Capone and a "public enemy" in his own right, was arrested today on a warrant issued by Secretary of Labor Doak and faces deportation as an undesirable alien. He is held under $10,000 bond.

Shirley D. Smith, head of the Chicago Immigration Bureau, said the government had enough evidence to deport Volpe. The government contends, Mr. Smith said, that Volpe made false statements in his application for citizenship.

Flannigan, Prisoners' Pet, Is Given Last Rites at Fort Myer.

Flannigan, whose dog days ended in death Wednesday night in the Fort Myer guardhouse, was buried yesterday afternoon with military honors. Flannigan spent six years behind the bars, but there was a brass band at his funeral.

The Scotch terrier was a year old when Col. Harry N. Coote brought him to Fort Myer in 191. Almost from the start Flannigan showed a decided partiality toward the men in the guardhouse, who would feed him and teach him tricks. When the Scottie was about 4 years old he deserted the kennels for the jail.

Not only did the dog prefer the bars on the "cooler" to those on the shoulders of the officers, but he exercised, without shame, another habit which revealed his plebeian nature.

Flannigan followed ash wagons.

Yes, Flannigan followed ash wagons until litely, when his legs began to lose their spring, his eyes went bad and other signs of infirmity set in so that the men had to bring him his food. Then Sunday night he died.

They put Flannigan's remains on the ash wagon, which was fitted up as a caisson, and gave the pet a full military burial in the dog cemetery near Arlington. The prisoners were there in dungarees and so were several mourners of Flannigan's own kind.

The fort band played a funeral march. A volley sounded the last salute. Then taps for Flannigan.

FILM COLONY BLAZE RAZES 19 COTTAGES

LOSS PUT AT $800,000

Los Angeles, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—A 40-mile wind blew fire through the summer homes of the film colony at Malibu Beach early today, burning nineteen houses, valued at more than $800,000.

Only eight of the houses were occupied. The flames aroused the owners, including Marie Prevost, actress; Dave Butler, film director, and George De Sylva, song writer. With week-end guests, they fled to safety in the chill night air.

Among the vacant houses destroyed were those of Louise Fazenda, actress; Frank Fay, Broadway comedian; Oliver C. Marsh, Ben Hendricks, jr., and James M. Kehlor, actors; A. L. Rockett, film producer; Leo McCarey, screen writer, and Allen Dwan, film director. The remaining homes were owned by Los Angeles people.

Fire officials believed the blaze was caused by a high tension wire, which snapped under the whipping of the strong off-shore wind and fell on a gasoline tank, causing an explosion. The tank was in the yard of the home of J. B. Fredericks, real estate man. His home was destroyed.

The resort stretches for more than a mile in a single row of houses fronting the ocean, 20 miles north of here. The wind turned this into a race track of fire, burning four hours before an emergency Malibu fire squad, aided by county and Santa Monica fire equipment, could make any headway.

The fire was the second disastrous blaze within a year. Nine homes were burned in a previous fire. About 100 homes are on the beach. Among the owners are Clara Bow, George O'Brien, Corrine Griffith, Laura La Plante, Gloria Swanson, Ruth Chatterton and Ronald Coleman.

PUPILS' FARE CASE WILL GET HEARING

Utilities Board Notifies Lines Public Airing Is to Be Held.

PATRICK FAVORS SPEED

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon gave notice to the street railway companies of its intention to hold a public hearing on the question of reduced fares for school children on street cars and buses. No date was set, but it was said the hearing would be held "at an early date."

A bill for the reduction of such fares is now the subject of hearings before the Senate District committee. After the 2-cent provision had been stricken out, the commission drafted and sent to the committee an amendment, leaving the settlement of the amount of the fare to the utilities body provided the reduction was at least half of the current adult rate of fare.

While the proponents of the 2-cent legislation saw in this action a move to delay any congressional action on the measure at this session, Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, asserted the hearing was called so that the legislation could be put into effect immediately on its adoption. The action, he said, was taken on a suggestion from a member of the Senate District committee at a recent session of the hearing.

Several hearings on the question of reduced fares have been held in previous years before the commission, and the topic long has been debated before congrssional committees.

The hearing can not be held before the first of January, because of the twenty days necessary for giving notice and the additional ten days' notice of the date, and it will have to follow the hearing called on the 1931 proposed rates of the Potomac lectric Power Co.

The commission will likely set the date for the latter hearing next Saturday, Gen. Patrick said.

CAPONE WINS DELAY IN CHICAGO'S COURT

Chicago, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—What had been anticipated as a red-letter day in the contest between law enforcement agencies and "public enemies" turned out to be just another day fo continuances.

"Scarface Al" Capone, the gang leader who heads the list of "enemies," failed to appear in Federal Court, where charges of contempt were being pressed against him, but his attorneys were given until January 10 to show cause why he should not be cited, and the preliminary hearing was continued to January 19.

Alleged Killer Wins Delay.

A third "enemy," William J. "Three-fingered Jack" White, in circuit court on charges of killing a policeman, was told his trial would not be held until January 12.

Joseph "Pepe" Genaro, whose reputation as a bomb specialist gave him a place on the gangster list, was given a continuance until Friday on a vagrancy charge, while the State's attorney, on order from Municipal Judge John Lyle, investigated his record.

The extraditoin hearing of Danny Stanton, Capone lieutenant, was continued to December 19. Waukesha County, Wis., authorities sought to return him to that country for the slaying of Jack Zuta, another Chicago gangster.

State Not Ready for Trial.

Vagrancy cases against James Belcastro and Edward "Spike" O'Donnell were continued to January 29 and January 26, respectively, when the State's attorney's office reported it was not ready to go to trial.

Although District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson had hinted that he would ask to have Al Capone's bond forfeited if he failed to appear for preliminary hearing, no mention to that effect was made today. Capone's attorneys said that the charge was a misdemeanor and that their client need not apepar until the trial started.

The contempt case was the result of an affidavit explaining his failure to appear before a Federal grand jury. Capone asserted he was ill in Florida. Government agents reported seeing him regularly in pleasure resorts, apparently in good health. The case has been pending almost two years with the gang leader under a $5,000 bond. He spent nearly a year of this period in a Philadelphia jail on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

INQUIRIES ORDERED IN BOAT DISASTER

Stiles were credited with saving the life of 10-month-old John Van Mill, jr., of Miami, as the child's mother pleaded with them to protect it.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Newhoff, of Atlanta, told of picking several small babies from the water.

Then there were stories, told by survivors, of isolated instances where men pushed women away from life preservers in order to protect themselves.

The Eureka II was believed today to be a total loss. It was valued by the owner, Capt. Stiles, at $50,000.

The owner said the Eureka II was not a glass bottom boat. They explained it was built on two pontoons, with a well in the center, into which a glass plate could be lowered in order to permit passengers to peer down to the marine gardens.

RESERVES RECALLED AS CUBA FINDS CALM

Troops and Extra Police Are Sent Back to Barracks as Tension Lifts.

PRESS ATTACKS CEASE

Havana, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Cuba remained tranquil today, the rioting of last week and the week before apparently forgotten.

Several extra reserves of police which had been held in precincts where trouble has occurred most frequently were taken from their posts this morning and troops which had been held in readiness for fresh outbursts were allowed to return to their barracks.

While there was a notable lifting of tension in all quarters, the government took advantage of the breathing spell to concentrate on the solution of student problems. It was stated plans were under way which, it was hoped, would bring a definite end to the unrest at the National University and Normal Schools and permit these institutions to be reopened soon.

The Nationalist Union, leading the battle to upset the Machado administration, has remained quiet since constitutional guarantees were ordered suspended by the president last week.

Manifesto attacks have been continued, thousands of circulars criticizing the government and the American Ambassador, Harry F. Guggenheim, being distributed, but there has been no indication that the opposition again would resort to use of arms during the remainder of the 60-day period of guarantee suspension.

President Machado, outside of issuing a statement denying rumors of his intended resignation, has had nothing to say since applying his power to lift the constitution.

Some arrests of those charged with sedition have been made by the secret police. Most of these have been on warrants secured through the department of the interior on evidence presented to that department. Press attacks on Machado have ceased, at least temporarily.

North American Car Corporation has received orders for 50 automatic refrigerator cars it is developing. Construction work already has been started in the corporation's shops.

The Texas Corporation has extended to and including January 15, 1931, the time for making deposits of common stock of Indian Refining Co. in exchange for Texas Corporation stock.

The daily gold statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York showed imports of $973,000 from Colombia. There were no exports.

William J. McAneeny, president and general manager of Hudson Motor Car Co., said that with 5,700 men added to the Hudson-Essex employment total, the number of wage earners at the plant now amounts to 9,244, compared with 3,500 a month ago. He said more men are being added week by week, all of them former employes who have been notified to return to work.

Asphalt sales of Lion Oil Refining Co. in the Middle West during the last six months of 1930 will aproximate 30,000 tons, T. H. Barton, president, announced. He said orders have necessitated operating the company's plant to capacity since it was placed in production last summer. The company is considering construction of another unit to the plant to meet requirements for next year.

SHAPIRO TRUE BILLS TO BE RESUBMITTED

11 CASES OUTSTANDING

Following the acquittal yesterday of Jacob Shapiro, president of the Joseph Shapiro realty firm, on an indictment charging false pretenses in connection with a sale of property to Dr. and Mrs. W. Calhoun Furr, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover announced that he would resubmit eleven other cases in which similar charges have ben made against the real estate operators. Indictments have been returned in all the cases, but in view of the acquittal, Mr. Rover will seek to remedy possible defects.

Should the grand jury return new indictments, Mr. Rover said an attempt would be made to tr ythe man again in January.

Shapiro was fred by a District Supreme Court jury after Justice Peyton Gordon had directed a verdict of acquittal.

Defense Motion Sustained.

This action came shortly after the justice had sustained a defense motion filed last week, in which the indictment on which Shapiro was tried was attacked on the ground that the Government was seeking to present certain documentary evidence which had not ben properly described.

The justice at the opening of the day's session read a lengthy opinion which sustained the defense motion. First Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihelly objected, but was overruled. "Then, I'm to take it we have bene conducting a moot court?" said the prosecutor. "Practically," said the judge.

Attorney Walter Tobriner, who, with Attorney Alvin Newmyer, appeared for the real estate man, then asked the court to instruct the jury to return a directed verdict of "acquittal."

Justice Grants Motion.

"Granted," said Justice Gordon.

Immediately Mr. Fihelly was on his feet with another objection, declaring that the motion was not proper since the Government had not closed its case.

"Well, what do you want to do—close or proceed?" asked the judge.

The prosecutor replied by instructing a deputy marshal to call Edwin Shelton, a former settlement clerk of the Shapiro firm. It was during the attempt to have Shelton identify the documentary evidence that the defense last week filed the motion which attacked the indictment and on which the court ruled at the opening of the day's session. Mr. Tobriner again objected to the testimony Mr. Fihelly was seeking to have introduced. He was sustained. Another witness was called, and another objection was sustained.

"Hidden Trust" Involved.

At that point Mr. Fihelly stated that the Government rested. Again Mr. Tobriner asked for a directed verdict, and Justice Gordon instructed the jury to rise and find a verdict of not guilty.

In the indictment involving the property bought by the Furrs, Shapiro is alleged to have sold them the premises without disclosing that there was a "hidden trust" on it. This also is alleged in the other indictments against the man. The Furr property, according to the Government, was encumbered by a hidden trust of $2,500 in addition to a first trust of $8,000, according to the Government. The $2,500 trust, according to the Government, was part of a blanket trust for $100,000 secured by 24 pieces of property.

Shapiro became embroiled in the criminal courts after he is alleged to have refused to testify before the Blaine subcommittee of the Senate District committee, which is investigating real estate activities in Washington.

Pending the reading of Justice Gordon's opinion, United States Attorney Rover declined to state whether he would seek to reindict Shapiro in connection with the sale to the Furrs. Until he had read the opinion and had looked up the authorities he stated he was not in position to say whether an attempt to retry the man in that connection would involve double jeopardy.

"However, we are prepared to present the other cases to the grand jury and expect to be able to place the man on trial again in January."

PITTS TAKES WITNESS STAND AND DENIES CRIMINAL ACTS

"I certainly did not."

Asked about testimony given previously by Joe Howard, colored porter, Mr. Pitts explained that Howard may frequently have made deposits to his accounts in various banks, but never at his instructions. If such deposits were made by the porter, he said, they were made at the order of his secretary.

Turning to the testimony given by Anthony Senes, self-styled "confidential agent" to the former chairman of the board, Mr. Pitts stated that he had employed Senes because of a deathbed request of a dear friend. "But," he added, "I found out very quickly that Senes was not meant to work for me. He did odd jobs around the place, but he never was a confidential agent."

In outlining the organization of the Smith company, Mr. Pitts said that before his resignation no investor who held its securities until maturity "ever lost a dollar." He stated that he and Samuel J. Henry, former president, owned all of the 150,000 shares of common stock and 90 per cent of the preferred stock. He said also that he had given blocks of preferred stock from his own personal holdings to Daniel R. Crissinger, Frederick N. Zihlman and Ansdale.

Also Under Indictment.

Mr. Crissinger and Mr. Zihlman are under indictment with Mr. Pitts on charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with operations of the Smith company.

Mr. Henry, who a few days ago attacked Mr. Pitts from the witness stand, was a spectator during part of his former superior's testimony.

In detailing the disposition of funds named in the bill of particulars, which he is charged with embezzling and which he contends were legally his, Mr. Pitts slowly, deliberately and in quiet tones, explained his part in the transactions. According to his explanation, he lent money at various times to finance building operations which were in narrow straits.

One of these was the Insurance Exchange Building in Pittsburgh. This building, he said, was financed by the Smith company, but was left partially completed when the contractor went bankrupt. When the surety company refused to carry on the work, he said, he raised $400,000, organized the Montclair Corporation, and gave his personal guarantee to the Smith company that the work would be completed. As sole owner of the Montclair Corporation, he said, he was entitled to any income which might accrue to the organization through its operations as constructor of the Insurance Exchange Building.

Cited Other Operations.

Similar cases, he said, were the Beverly Building Corporation, which he took over from Emory L. Coblentz, president of the Central Trust Co. of Maryland, and several associates, and the Forty-Third and Locust Streets Building Corporation, of Philadelphia.

Thirty items in the bill of particulars, totaling $306,000, he said, were paid to him from the Beverly Building Corporation. In support of each statement he identified withdrawal authorizations and receipts covering the transaction. Of the amount admittedly withdrawn from the Beverly organization, $26,851 went toward the purchase of El Lado del Mar, his Florida estate.

From the Montclair Corporation, he identified withdrawals totaling $299,085 in 22 items, of which $124,795 went to El Lado del Mar. One payment of $9,768, from the Montclair Corporation, was used to cable 250,000 francs to him while he was in Europe, he said. In fact, many of the Montclair items were withdrawn while he was in Europe, but to provide for this he had left signed authorizations and receipts with his secretary. As sole stockholder of the corporation, he handled all of its financial transactions.

Identified Dividend Checks.

One item of $9,000, which the prosecution had split up into four Smith company checks of $2,250 each, he identified as dividend payments on Smith company stock owned by him, but held in the name of four employes of the company. Another deposit of $5,000, Mr. Pitts said, represented "money accumulated" in his office.

As his own defense witness, Mr. Pitts proved calm and collected, answering no questions hurriedly and frequently asking that questions be more fully explained before replying.

It is expected that today he will be turned over to Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General, and Neil Burkinshaw, assistant District attorney, for cross-examination.

WIFE TELLS COURT SHE FEARS HUSBAND

Federal Employe Makes Plea for Limited Divorce and Injunction.

SAYS HE ENDANGERS JOB

Declaring that the man she married November 8 had left her apartment December 4, stating he would not return but would move to Virginia and seek a divorce, Enola W. Martin, of the Flagler Apartments, Twenty-second and H streets northwest, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to award her a limited divorce and an injunction against Leo F. Martin, of Allison street northwest, near Fourth street.

The woman says that she is a Government employe; that since December 4 she has refused to see the husband, and that he has been annoying her by telephoning her at her place of employment. This, she says, jeopardizes her position, and she asks the court to compel her husband to show cause why he should not be enjoined from such and other alleged molestations.

Mrs. Martin also tells the court that her husband had refused to establish a home for her and that since their marriage she has resided at the apartment she occupied while single, and he has resided at his former quarters. Mrs. Martin states that after their marriage and prior to their "break," her husband visited her occasionally at her apartment.

The wife charges the man with being moody and going into rages, and alleges that she has been in fear of her life. She also states that the man has failed to support her. Attorney William F. Martin appears for the woman.

SENATE RESTORES PAY BILL BENEFITS FOR U. S. WORKERS

Senator King, that the entire amount carried for Government salaries in all of the appropriations bills was $391,185,000.

Although in the course of every debate on Government salaries many of those opposed to improvement of working conditions or better pay declare that proposed increases are for the benefit of workers in Washington, Senator Phipps showed that more than twice the amount provided for Government workers in the District was provided for Government employes outside Washington.

This phase of the question was not mentioned in the brief discussion in the Senate yesterday and it was brought out only in the figures read by Senator Phipps. Of the total for salaries in all appropriations bills, he said, $103,000,000, in round numbers was for Government employes in the District and $288,185,000 for those outside Washington in the field service.

Uniform Treatment Asked.

Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), of Tennessee, declared that inasmuch as the House had stricken the Wood amendment from the Interior appropriation bill last Friday it "would be manifestly unjust not to treat employes of all departments alike," and the Senate should approve the appropriation committee's action in eliminating the amendment from the Postoffice-Treasury bill.

Senator Royal C. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, said that the salary increases approved by the appropriations committee would help the lower-paid Government employes.

The action of the Senate yesterday is expected to result in approval of the proposed salary increases asked by the President for all departments. The increases are to provide approximately 30 per cent of the amount necessary to bring under-average salaries up to the average of their grades as specified in the classification law.

Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, chairman of the House appropriations committee, whose name has been given the amendment forbidding any increase in salaries in the next year, said yesterday that he would continue his fight to restrict increases. He said he would insist on inclusion of his amendment in each annual supply bill until it was carried to a final test on the first bill. That means that the action of the conferees of House and Senate on the Postoffice Treasury bill passed by the Senate yesterday will be accepted by the House appropriations committee chairman as a decision.

Mr. Wood stands pretty much alone at the moment, other members of his committee not being anxious to have the fight fought over again on the floor of the House each time an appropriations bill is considered.

It is likely, however, that the House will follow Mr. Wood's lead and leave out of each bill the amounts recommended to equalize salaries. There might be an effort in the House to restore these and that effort might be victorious, but House leaders do not want to give Mr. Wood too bad a licking and it is probable that the question of increases will be left for a battle between the conferees of the House and Senate and the latter will yield after a long enough fight to save face.

brought back to Washington. He, too, was found in Pittaburgh.

Both men entered pleas of not guilty on arraignment, although Carnell, according to police, admitted having grappled with Bush in the garage on the night of the shooting. Carnell also is said to have told police that Mahoney drove him to the vicinity of Mr. Bush's home after they had decided to hold-up some one.

Police state that McKay had nothing to do with the actual robbery, but that his gun was used.

Since being returned to Washington, Carnell has expressed a desire to "take the rap" if his pals could be saved, but his attorneys are going to attempt to show that Carnell did not shoot Mr. Bush, but that the latter shot himself while attempting to prevent their client's escape.

Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins is prosecuting. Carnell is represented by Attorneys Louis Whitestone and W. R. Lichenberg, and Mahoney by Attorneys F. J. Donahue and Cedric Johnson.

Ellises, Wed 51 Years, Enter Post's Contest

The latest entry in The Post's contest to find the longest wedded couple in Washington and the vicinity is Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Ellis, who took their wedding vows on August 12, 1879, more than 51 years ago.

Although Mr. Ellis is 79 years old he has had only nineteen birthdays, having been born on February 29. His son, Charles W. Ellis, has had 50 birthdays.

Soon after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Ellis began their home at 4117 M street northwest, where they still live. Mr. Ellis works every day at the Army and Navy Club, where he is in charge of decorating and paint work. Mrs. Ellis manages to do plenty of housework.

A silver cup with the engraved compliments of this newspaper will be presented to the couple who wins the contest. If a picture of the couple is not available a Post staff photographer will make one on request.

THE SHIP CONTROVERSY.

In June, 1929, the Shipping Board opened sealed bids for the purchase of the American-Diamond and the American-France Lines, cargo services operated between the United States and French, Dutch and Belgian ports. The United States Lines, the premier American shipping company, operator of the Leviathan, was the high bidder. Its offer, which was on the basis of $25.38 per ton, totaled almost $4,000,000. The operators of the cargo lines made offers based on a rate of $14 per ton. The bid of the Black Diamond Corporation totaled $1,567,000 for the thirteen ships of the line it operated, and the bid of the Cosmopolitan Shipping Co., operator of the nine vessels comprising the American-France Line, totaled $1,094,000. The opening of these bids was the signal for the inauguration of a dispute that reached a climax last week when the Shipping Board rejected all bids.

The merchant marine act gives the Shipping Board wide latitude in the disposition of Government-owned tonnage. One provision of the act specifies that the operators of lines shall be given preference in disposing of lines. Another clause directs the board to dispose of ships to the "highest responsible bidder." The United States Lines, as the highest responsible bidder, felt that it was entitled to the award of the services. It believes, moreover, that the building up of a well-rounded North Atlantic fleet requires that the two small lines be consolidated with its services. The operators, however, pointed to the "preference" clause of the shipping act, calling attention to the fact that they had operated their respective lines successfully over a ten-year period, and claiming that they were entitled to the ships. Subsequently to the opening of the bids, they raised their offers to substantially the amount offered by the United States Lines.

The sale of a Government shipping line to private interests does not of itself mark a complete transaction. When the Government transfers a line to a private operator it provides him with ships at a most reasonable figure and in addition agrees to back the operator financially through the construction loan fund of the Shipping Board, and to provide him with mail contracts that will make possible profitable operation of the line. Because possession of a ship line offers such splendid opportunities for making money, the award of the lines may be regarded as the richest opportunity the Government can bestow upon its citizens. In effect the Government has provided handsome subsidies for the operators of ship lines.

In rejecting the bids the Shipping Board acted on the recommendation of a special committee set up by President Hoover last June to consider the dispute and make recommendations as to how the awards should be made. The board further ordered the return of good faith deposits to bidders and set in motion negotiations with the Postmaster General to determine what mail contracts would be awarded to the two lines when they are sold. On the surface, the action of the Shipping Board indicates that the entire process of advertising for bids and selling the ships will be started anew, but by rejecting the bid of the United States Lines it is apparent that the cards have been stacked for the award of the services to their present operators.

It is probably quite within the Shipping Board's right under the Jones-White act to favor the operators. But both parties to the dispute have friends in Congress. In behalf of the operators of the lines it may be said that their record of ten years' successful operation entitles them to a certain amount of preferential consideration. Moreover, the United States Lines should not be permitted to build up a monopoly on the North Atlantic ship lanes, and the tendency would be toward monopoly if one by one the smaller lines were gobbled up by the United States Lines. But if the principle of competitive bidding is not to be surrendered the United States Lines clearly is entitled to the award of these services. It seems probable that the question will have to be decided by Congress.

SPEED AND SAFETY.

The rule for regulating the speed of automobiles adopted by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, defines as excessive "a speed which is greater than reasonable or proper or which will not permit the driver to decrease speed or stop as may be necessary to avoid colliding with any person, vehicle or conveyance." It would seem reasonable to make manner of driving rather than actual speed the basis for regulation. Traffic conditions vary widely at different hours of the day and from city block to city block and when "miles per hour" is made the basis of regulation it is impossible to achieve either safety or an even flow of traffic.

An elastic definition of excessive speed, however, presupposes that policemen are qualified to decide what constitutes unreasonable or improper speed and that they can be trained to make cases that will hold in court against those driving dangerously. It presupposes, too, that the courts will convict upon testimony that a vehicle has been driven unreasonably or improperly or at a speed greater than would enable the driver to stop to avoid a collision. Police generally have had no experience with legislation that gives them such wide discretionary power to make arrests nor have the courts been called upon to handle cases based on regulations that, patently, are susceptible to varying interpretations.

Before the council's recommendation is generally adopted, some assurance will have to be given that a regulation of this nature is enforceable. While cities everywhere are anxious to speed up traffic, the first interest is the protection of life and property. Can speed be made a matter for the individual to decide for himself without endangering life and property?

LESSONS FROM THE DEPRESSION.

It is, of course, a source of great disappointment that the expected last-quarter upturn in business has not materialized. Following the stock market collapse there was a general impression that business one way or another would succeed in averting an era of prolonged hard times, but gradually it has become apparent that practical and applied economics has not yet reached the point where it is master of a situation such as that which now prevails. But America's eyes are always on the future. Bitter lessons have been learned in the last eighteen months. Nothing is more certain than that economists and captains of industry have at last become aroused to the needlessness and costliness of general depressions. The immediate task is the reestablishment of prosperity, but the larger task is the revision of the industrial system to the end that depressions may be relegated to history. While attention is centered on the reestablishment of prosperity it is not likely that anything tangible can be accomplished toward revising the system, but when prosperity returns this important work will be undertaken.

The report of Julius H. Barnes, head of the national business survey conference, having to do with the current business situation, is not by any means a discouraging document. The report considers the situation for the first eleven months of the year, a period which, according to Mr. Barnes, "may for practical purposes be held to indicate the year-end conditions." On the dark side of the picture the conference found a 31 per cent decrease in capital flotations, large decreases in construction both as compared with 1929 and 1928, decreased activity in the transportation field of recent weeks, &c. On the bright side of the picture the conference reported a continued large volume of short-term credit, sustained volume of long-distance telephone messages and improved telegraph business and, in October, the highest index for real estate activity since February.

"The reports indicate," says Mr. Barnes, "that the sanguine expectations generally held early in 1930, of greatly quickened trade before the end of the year, have not been realized. There is evidence of many industries having adapted themselves to current conditions and having successfully balanced production and market consumption. Through many industries runs the evidence that management by various resourceful devices has maintained employment at a higher rate than the statistical index of operations. Even during this recession, the aggregate volume of trade has manifestly been of large proportions, and there are evidences of individual industries successful beyond the average."

With production balanced to consumption the way is paved for the reestablishment of prosperity on a firm basis at the first signs of quickened demand. There is abundant evidence that the American people are beginning to reach the end of their reserve supplies. Automobiles that normally would have been replaced during the summer, for example, are wearing out. Their replacement can not be much longer deferred. The buyers' strike has been maintained for eighteen months, and probably within the next few months a flood of buying will have to be released. If, as is reported by another agency, namely, the National Association of Manufacturers, industry today is operating at 86.81 per cent of normal capacity, it is obvious that even a slight quickening of demand will have far-reaching effect.

Despite the disappointments of the fall and early winter, there is good reason to believe that the first quarter of 1931 will bring tangible evidence that the upswing has started. Probably the march back to normalcy will be slow because business will not soon forget the dark days through which it has been passing, and business men will exert every effort to establish the new structure on a firm foundation. The depression of 1929-30, when it is surveyed from a perspective, probably will not be termed altogether evil.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE.

Export trade for the entire world will show a decrease of approximately 8 per cent during 1930, according to an analysis by the National Foreign Trade Council. The council figures the trade of 101 nations at $22,500,000,000 as compared with $24,427,000,000 in 1929, both figures being reduced to the common index of 1913 prices.

Only a few countries, including France, Russia, Roumania and the Irish Free State, show actual gains for 1930. British exports fell off 10 per cent in volume and those of the United States 15 per cent. On the basis of value the decline appears to be considerably larger because of the fall in prices during the last year.

The relative position of the United States in the field of international trade, is, however, much stronger than these figures indicate. Europe as a whole is not exporting as large a volume of goods as it did before the war. Even in 1929, when exports were at their height, the prewar peak was not reached. On the other hand, exports of the United States this year will be about 35 per cent greater than they were before the war.

American exports of machinery, electrical goods, tractors, chemical goods and similar necessities held up well in spite of the depression. Items which are largely responsible for the decline are automobiles and raw cotton. Automobiles are a luxury in all foreign markets, and it is quite natural that the demand for them should decrease during a period of world-wide hard times. The demoralization of the cotton market is not wholly due to the depression. New sources of supply are being developed in other countries, and the American cotton exporter is faced with unusual competition.

It is interesting to note that imports into the United States for the first ten months of this year have declined proportionately less than exports. This suggests that the United States is not so much affected by the depression as are its customers. Buying power has been maintained much better here than abroad.

Fortunately the United States is less dependent upon foreign markets than any other great nation. This country has a vastly greater domestic market than any other country has ever enjoyed. Only surplus goods are exported after the domestic market has been supplied. Unquestionably American foreign commerce will continue to expand when the economic adjustments now under way have been made, but the domestic market will continue to be by far the more important. The prosperity of the country is contingent upon the maintenance of a national policy that will reserve that market for American producers.

BUILD UP THE NAVY

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Admiral Pratt, the chief of naval operations, is well qualified to testify as to the situation in London when the naval treaty was being negotiated, because he was one of the experts attached to the American delegation. Recently he told the members of the House committee on naval affairs: "We have been very backward in the construction of carriers. It made our position at London precarious."

Thus once again the painfully obvious fact is brought before the public that our influence at international naval conferences is seriously weakened and our chances for getting fair treatment dangerously jeopardized if we have not got the parity Navy which the treaty allows. This was made very clear during the debate on the London treaty. As Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, put it on July 19, "all the delegates who have testified in connection with the London conference and the treaty resulting from its deliberations found themselves unable to make any immediate progress for the simple reason that we were inferior in naval strength." In a statement on July 21, which must appeal strongly to extreme pacifists, he remarked, "The whole thing, like a thread of gold running through all this testimony, is that we could not get reduction, that we could not do anything with reduction because we were inferior."

We still are inferior. Now that a naval program is under consideration it is well to recall the determination of some of the ablest men in Congress that this inferiority should not be prolonged. Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, for instance, was actually a delegate to the London conference. Speaking for himself and the other members of the delegation, he told the Senate on July 15 that "we were horrified to find that in these auxiliary classes the United States was in a condition of almost hopeless inferiority. * * * They (the British) had us 4 to 1. * * * I, for one, had never before realized how hopelessly insignificant was our auxiliary fleet." Later, on July 21, Senator Reed made the utterance which one would expect from an intelligent man who entered a trading game when he had virtually nothing with which to trade. He said: "I personally believe that we should build a Navy up to actual tangible parity, and not paper parity, with Great Britain." Even Senator Borah, who has a congenital dislike of the implements of national defense, said on that same day, "I can very easily see how it will not only be the duty but a matter of necessity upon the part of the United States to build in accordance with the treaty."

As the Herald Tribune recently stated, the proposed naval program will not achieve parity before the next naval conference in 1936. Admiral Pratt has confirmed this statement. This raises the question as to whether a future American delegation is again to be "horrified" by our "hopeless inferiority." Is American statesmanship to prove itself so barren that it ties the hands of its representatives five years hence? Or will a little foresight be shown now while there is still time? These are questions which can not be dodged.

The lack of such foresight would be expensive indeed, but the use of it today would be cheap, both politically and financially. All the old anti-Navy arguments, which foreigners and misguided Americans so loudly trumpeted, have vanished into thin air. The "naval race" bugaboo is ended because the London treaty stops competitive building until 1936. By the same token the favorite contention that American naval building will be received in an unfriendly spirit by foreign countries goes overboard. The money argument is equally worthless, for the achievement of parity by 1936 would only cost in the neighborhood of 2½ per cent of the total expenditure on government in one year alone.

On the national defense side strong new arguments have appeared. Of most immediate interest perhaps is the fact that 80 per cent of the cost of parity would go to American labor—and according to recent reports some 2,500 men are to be laid off at the shipyards in Philadelphia, Norfolk, Boston and New York in the near future. With the Government embarking on great public works, the slighting of the Navy is hard indeed to excuse. But a stronger argument in the long view is the fact that at the next naval conference in 1936 America will be hamstrung if the administration's building program is not materially increased. Congress should ponder the melancholy lesson of the recent past and take steps at this session for the immediate increase of the naval establishment.

SHORT CIRCUITS.

Explanation.

Indianapolis News: There are 44,000 thunderstorms somewhere on this earth every day, and that may explain why the radio occasionally throws a fit.

Spare the Thought!

London Opinion: A phrenologist claims to delineate character from a single hair. Many a wife has done this from such a clew found on her husband's lapel.

The London Way.

Louisville Courier-Journal: Persons suffering from heart disease will not be permitted to operate motor vehicles in London in the future. Heart failure will thus be confined to pedestrians.

Cautious.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Shaw says a lot of nice things about Einstein, but does not commit himself on the matter of understanding the theory of relativity.

Educational Progress.

Worcester Telegram: One good thing about the ending of the football season is that it enables the collective intelligence to take up hockey seriously.

No Chance for Error.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Those "experts" who are selecting all-American teams would save themselves a lot of time and criticism if they would simply choose the Notre Dame outfit and let it go at that.

"Stream" Good Synonym.

Lexington Herald: A news story declares that the tunnel between Detroit and Windsor, Canada, is open, with a steady "flow" of people in it all the time. "Flow" is perhaps a discriminative selection in the way of a word.

Safer at Home.

Louisville Courier Journal: The first day's result of the Massachusetts deer season was twenty deer and fourteen hunters being killed or wounded—a bad break for the wild animal with the gun.

Intentional Neglect.

Minneapolis Journal: Some housewives are so careless that they neglect to remove the ice on the back steps until they have trapped the gentleman who comes to read the meter.

Philoprogenitiveness.

Los Angeles Times: With the great number of people recently contesting in the courts for the care and custody of children, sometimes of children who had been adopted, it would seem that the bump which phrenologists refer to as "philoprogenitiveness" is still prominent and not receding on man's head.

WHY DOCTORS AREN'T MORE SUCCESSFUL.

Man is a weakling at the best,
Temptation sore besets him,
Though by the doctors told to rest
The urge to battle gets him.
Let him but feel relief from pain,
Out of his bed he hurries;
Believing he is well again,
He takes on all his worries.

Not only is the drunkard weak,
Not weak alone the sinner;
The thin dyspeptic, pale of cheek,
Is tempted by a dinner.
Though told on milk and eggs to dine,
Since good red meat upsets him;
The moment he is feeling fine
The smell of beefsteak gets him.

"Not now, not now," the doctor cries,
"Stay till a few weeks longer!"
But every man from bed will rise
When he is feeling stronger.
Tell him there's death in apple pie,
Ten thousand times repeat it,
But when the pain has passed him by,
He'll run the risk and eat it.

Where the Cattle Multiply Most, the Lions and Tigers Are Fattest.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

Every time a jeweler manufactures a gold ring, he makes every man in the world a fraction poorer.

When a shipment of gold is lost at sea, every man in the world is made poorer.

That isn't a fine-spun theory but a literal and exact truth.

Most of the world's business is done on faith—on credit. A business man accepts various kinds of commercial paper in lieu of cash because he knows by experience that the paper can be exchanged for currency. And he accepts the currency at its face value because he knows it can be exchanged for gold.

Gold is the world's fortune—its stock in trade—its guarantee of payment—its one unfailing security.

Since all of the modern nations of great wealth now use gold to guarantee the worth of their paper money, it follows that the world's supply of money is limited by the supply of gold.

There are but two ways to increase the world's wealth—by the application of labor and power to raw material, and by finding new wealth in the earth.

As more wealth is thus created or found, every man in some measure shares in the increase. The lot of the common man is better today than it was 50 years ago because the world has more wealth to divide.

Business in a "hick" town marks time in the summer because the people have little money to spend and becomes brisk in the fall when the harvested crops, which are newly-created wealth, bring in new money to circulate.

In the early years of the twentieth century, the price of labor and of commodities increased rapidly and considerably because South African mines added much to the world's supply of gold.

Now the world's business has grown so great that the present output of gold can't provide security for new money as fast as the money is needed.

The most ignorant of men now know that the world will not accept at face value paper money that has no backing except a Government's promise to pay.

The world must have more money if it would continue to prosper—good money backed by gold—and there is but one solution of the problem.

Get more gold. Get it by means of a tax that will make the use of gold in jewelry prohibitive, and by mining new gold from the earth—even where the ore is so poor the mine must be operated at a loss.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

To Save the Coal Industry.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The announcement that Senator Davis is preparing a bill to amend the Sherman law to permit consolidation of coal companies has been received with special satisfaction in western Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Illinois. But interest in his proposal is not confined to those regions where the bituminous coal industry is operating rather than flourishing.

Rehabilitation of this industry, toward which this proposed legislation would be one step, would have its bearing on the prosperity of many others.

It has been figured that an individual output of at least 400,000 tons per mine is essential to economic efficiency. Yet there have been years when two-thirds of the total tonnage was produced by mines with an output of less than 200,000 tons. It is clear what benefits the industry would derive from wholesale consolidations as well as from trade agreements relating to prices and distribution now forbidden by law.

Years ago John Hays Hammond characterized as "the greatest single evil" of this industry the intermittent nature of the employment it afforded. In applying rigorous measures of reduction, one large concern cites the resultant benefits to the labor that is retained, of which stability of employment comes first.

Sweet Forgetfulness.
Detroit News.

If we ever get along to the point where we "want to forget it all," we believe we'll turn it over to the Wickersham commission.

Big Stick Is Popular.
Detroit News.

Who knows? Possibly if Mr. Hoover just forgot about being himself and was Roosevelt for a while, it would be helpful.

The Wilder Senate.
Chicago Tribune.

Some hope is had in Washington and in higher rated sections of the country that the House of Representatives will be able to hold the Senate in check and reduce the nonsense of the short session to a minimum without making a special session unavoidable. This, admittedly, will take some effort.

It is a curious reversal of ideas which makes the House the solid protection against wildness in the Senate. That was not in the orginal intention or expectation. The Senate was supposed to be the bulwark of conservatism. The term of six years was intended to protect a senator from sudden storms. The election by legislatures was another remove from popular instability. That has been done away with and is partly responsible for looser wits in the upper chamber.

The House, There She Stands!
New York Herald Tribune.

The fathers of the Constitution, as every one knows, originally intended that the Senate should act as a brake upon unwise legislation in the House. How ironical this sounds today! In the last few years the respective roles of these two bodies have been reversed, and now it is the House to which the country looks for conservative action, and, fortunately, not in vain.

Just Like the Rest of Us.
Indianapolis Star.

The United States Treasury has a deficit, illustrating once more that this is a Government of and by the people.

Loafing Already.
Indianapolis News.

Now that the Senate is described as resting on its oars, there will be a public movement to supply it with an outboard motor.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Moving Appeal From a Veteran. Tells Congressmen to Look at Men Who Ask for Jobs—Soldiers Need Bonus Now.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What about this unemployment situation? What are they going to do about it? What about the soldier's bonus?

Stop and think of the hundreds of former soldiers, sailors and marines right here in Washington who have no home, while others have wives, children and mothers who are suffering from cold and not enough to eat.

Now is the time when the bonus is needed. What good is it going to do fifteen years from now to the former soldier, sailor or marine who freezes to death or dies from exposure this winter? How many of these men shivering on the streets now will be living to receive any benefit from their bonus if Congress keeps putting it off?

Mr Congressman, walk around our city streets early in the morning, not through the parks, and look. Huddled in the doorways, against the buildings, any place to get out of the biting wind, take a look at the man's eyes who asks you for a nickel for a cup of coffee. Look at his shoulders and the way he carries himself. Over two-thirds of these men are former service men. You can not see this sitting in a taxi or in your own sedan.

See the look on the face of the man who has been standing in front of an office door or building for four hours, hoping he would be lucky. Visit the breadline; notice the man who is slyly putting a heel of bread in his pocket—follow him and see where he goes. Notice the man cleanly dressed, though his clothes are worn, with the newspaper in his pocket doubled up so that only the want ads are exposed. Eight out of ten had that piece of paper they valued above all else—their service discharge. But what is it getting them. They can not get a job with it, they can not eat with it, it does not get them a place to sleep or keep warm.

If congressmen and senators want to do something really worth while, let them pass a bill at once for appropriations to pay these men at least 25 per cent of the value of their certificates. Make it payable through the Veterans' Bureau at once, and see how rapidly your bread line diminishes.

The former service man did not fail you when you called him—are you going to fail him now?

A VETERAN.

Land Should Be Taxed According to Value of Its Site.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Calvin Coolidge says in The Post of December 10 that Congress has before it two problems, which, in their solution, conflict with each other. Briefly, they are, how to provide revenue, and how to encourage business. He says rigid governmental economy would solve both.

Now, governmental expenditures are for the benefit of the people, and incidentally, business. Reducing taxes by reducing benefits shows no net gain. Some waste may be eliminated, but even efficiency creates unemployment for a time.

One tax alone solves both of the above problems at the same time, and Mr. Coolidge suggested it once himself. Taking a local case, the Borland law is an attempt at application of this tax principle in the District. It is not workable in present form, because frontage and area, rather than site value, are measures for taxation. Street improvements in the District of Columbia keep up or increase value of land in Maryland and Virginia also, but there is no way at present to make those landowners pay. To tax business for their improvements by means of the gasoline tax is not fair, for truck and car users pass their saving over to landowners in increased rent.

During the discussion of the Mississippi River control, Mr. Coolidge, then President, said, "If worthless land is reclaimed by public money, the owner of that land ought to bear the expense of that reclamation."

All land is worthless until improved by public money, and its owners ought to bear the cost of the improvements. Without going into further detail, this is a tax on site value of land, and can not retard business. This tax can not be passed on to business, because business pays all the site is worth, regardless of who pays the taxes. W. C. DUNCAN.

Barbee's "Washington: City of Mighty Events," Highly Praised by "Federalist."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In the subtitle of his recently published book, "Washington: City of Mighty Events," David Rankin Barbee directs attention to what may be called the all-inclusive attraction of the Federal City.

In Boston, New York, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Richmond, Baltimore are priceless patriotic memorials to a great extent associated with the story of the Revolution. But Washington excels them all.

Every decade of Washington's growth up to the present time contributes its episodic reminders of the Republic's development, and contiguous Maryland and Virginia carry us back to colonial days.

What I especially like in the text of Mr. Barbee's volume is that it bears no trace of perfunctory treatment. I do not know whether he is a native son, but his survey reads like that of a sympathetic observer habitually familiar with the city's attractions, on foot, by street car, by automobile and possibly in the sea-going hacks, as we used to call them, of the dear dead days beyond recall.

In the words of James Hay, jr., "'Washington: City of Mighty Events' is not only an absolutely reliable guide book. It is far more than that. It is an adventure in history and a fine accomplishment in literature."

I have long been of the opinion that the history of the District of Columbia should have first place in the list of studies of its public and private schools. Contributing to the success of such a study, I think Mr. Barbee's work should be particularly useful. FEDERALIST.

Hindu Prince Guest Here Of Borahs

Singh Khalse Recently Married Girl in Colorado.

PICTURESQUE figures of the East and the West met yesterday and political phases of two great countries were discussed when Senator and Mrs. William E. Borah received the Prince Singh Khalse, of India, during his brief visit in Washington, the prince having left last night on the next lap of his long journey to the East.

Prince Singh, who recently married a Colorado girl, made the acquaintance of the Idaho senator while he was a student at the University of Idaho. Following his graduation there several years ago he attended Stanford University, immediately pursuing a comprehensive study of journalism as practiced in this country with a view to the promotion of a chain of newspapers in his own land. His first step upon reaching his homeland will be the establishment of a group of papers patterned after the methods of the fourth estate in this country. His wife, who is now in Colorado, will follow him within several months, to their new home in India.

Living in regal splendor in his own country Prince Singh established a place for himself among his colleagues at the Western universities where he was dubbed a "regular fellow." While at Boise he entertained at a magnificent banquet in honor of Senator and Mrs. Borah, mingling the sumptuousness of Oriental form and splendor with democratic informality—and striking a delightful medium of enviable hospitality. In harmony with the character of the Hindu, to whom an enduring friendship is the greatest thing in the world, Prince Singh has through the years maintained his friendship with the senator from Idaho to whom he paid his first call among the dignitaries of the Capital.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL.

THE Motion Picture Theater Owners of Washington, under the alert presidency of Sidney Lust, the Capital's foremost independent exhibitor, has enlisted the interest of the Washington bicentennial committee and the local Chamber of Commerce in a project that bids fair to redound to the marked advantage of the National Capital in general and the bicentennial celebration in 1932 in particular.

It is the plan to make a talking motion picture in which will be set forth the principal points of interest in and around the City of Washington, as well as the considerable advantages that accrue to those who make their permanent homes within the District of Columbia. While this project has been tentatively considered before, it has now taken definite shape and gives every promise of successful fulfillment.

The widespread distribution which such a film would command may be gathered from the fact that Mr. Lust has already been given assurance that motion picture theaters throughout the land will give it featured prominence, and Dorsey Hyde, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has to date received like promise from 25 chambers of commerce scattered throughout the Union that they will get behind the proposal and actively foster the wide dissemination of the synchronized symposium of Washington's superlative splendors and captivating charm.

On Friday night, by the way, Mr. Lust is dedicating a new theater in Front Royal, Va., making an even dozen links in the chain which he controls. The new house so far is without name, a contest having been conducted for the best name submitted by the public of the Virginia city, the result to be announced as part of Friday's elaborate inaugural ceremony.

It is an an open secret, I think, that Mr. Lust's next venture will be in Rockville, Md., where negotiations are already well under way for the erection of a modern, wired theater.

You, no doubt, have heard the expression, "Lust for power!"

That Radio-Keith-Orpheum sound truck, whose arrival in the Capital was heralded in Saturday's column, called upon this department yesterday, escorted by the Messrs. Ace Berry, territorial manager for RKO, and Sam Galanty, Columbia Pictures' local branch exchange manager, and proved to be quite a perambulating plant.

In addition to being a neat, but not gaudy, color job, this ingenious broadcasting studio on wheels is equipped with a 12-horsepower motor and a sizable transformer that supply power to twelve superdynamic loudspeakers—six on each side of the body. In addition to amplifying commotions which originate inside its own tonneau—if a truck has a tonneau—there is a radio receiver that brings in aerial disturbances that also can be resamplified and tossed out into the ether again.

The truck began its coast-to-coast tour in New York City recently and will be on the road for a little more than a year. It is under the personal operation of Edgar Zane, a radio and sound engineer, who is making the tour a combination business trip and honeymoon, his recent bride having been a former Omaha newspaper writer.

So, if you hear something that you can not identify, it will probably be Mr. Zane knocking your ears down with his conversational chariot.

Reverting again to an earlier column, it may be recalled that a word was said about a new recording device perfected by ERPI not so long ago, the idea being that silence has at last been made silent.

A test reel, recorded by the new process, was given a private trial projection at the Fox Theater last Saturday night by ERPI sound engineers, who are experimenting with the trick recording in theaters of all sizes under as great a variety of conditions as they can find. The result was up to their most optimistic expectations.

Speaking of the Fox, it may be of interest that the Elco Twins, appearing in Fanchon & Marco's "Seeing Double" stage revue, are Danish girls with a decidedly meager command of English. They have been in the United States a year under a limited passport, by the terms of which they must sail again for Copenhagen on January 15, 1931.

They came to this country in quest of screen engagements, but signed with Fanchon & Marco instead. At Niagara Falls, where "Seeing Double" recently played, they took the customary gorge trip by trolley and were detained for two days on the Ontario side because of passport technicalities which had failed to be foreseen. It took two days of wire pulling, I understand, to get the two Danish subjects, nonresidents of the United States, back in the unit.

Upon their return to their native land they will appear in sound, but not talking pictures, for which they already have signed contracts.

And that reminds me. It is remarkable what a powerful influence upon a career a brief association with the movies can have. Take the case of Winnie Lightner, appearing in person at the Earle, for example.

Miss Lightner has played the Capital time and time again, first as the most engaging third of the vaudeville team of the Lightner Sisters and Alexander, later with George White's "Scandals," and under other notable auspices, without ever before tilting the town clear up on edge the way she has this time. Think back and recall, for yourself, if you can, any previous visit of this scintillating comedienne that moved the populace to storm the theater where she was playing en masse. I can't either.

There is no appreciable difference between her present work and her earlier ebullient appearances on the local boards. The screen is the single factor that has made all the difference in the Lightner appeal to the multitudes.

Yet Welford Beaton, Charlie Chaplin and a few others—but why bring that up again?

And don't think that just because a girl is a swell songstress and has her name 'way up there in lights that she never gets nervous.

I trust Miss Lightner will pardon my suspecting that she was so nervous at her first performance Saturday that she forgot part of the lyrics of a song she has sung oftener than any of the others—the "Mechanical Man" number, from "Gold Diggers."

It takes that kind of nerves to make an artiste.

Buy the buy, how are you getting on with your X-mas cards—if any?

A. R., to be held in the studio of the League of American Pen Women at Stoneleigh Court, this evening at 8 o'clock. This music group was formed to study the sixteenth century magrigals. The program will be given in the costume of the period.

Mrs. Anne Tillery Renshaw will be the guest speaker of the evening. Her subject will be "Our Christmas Blessings." Mrs. E. Richard Gasch, regent of the Constitution Chapter, especially invites all members to attend.

make this an ELECTRICAL CHRISTMAS

There is an electrical gift for everyone. Your thoughtfulness in providing greater comfort and convenience for those whom you love is best expressed with gifts that eliminate endless hours of tedious labor . . . . gifts that provide many more hours of leisure.

The original cost of electrical gifts is most reasonable . . . and everyone knows that the cost of operation is so trivial that it is computed in terms of pennies. This has been made possible by the substantial reductions in the cost of "Matchless Service" . . . every year for six consecutive years. As a result, indispensable "Matchless Service" is furnished to residents of Washington and nearby Maryland at a primary household rate that is 53 per cent lower than in 1924!

Present indications point to a further reduction in rates in 1931. No other commodity of equal benefit can boast of such a splendid record.

Your neighborhood electrical dealer is showing a complete line of electrical gifts. He will be glad to have you come in and ask for demonstrations of the many useful, practical appliances that will find a welcome in any home on Christmas day and throughout the years to come.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

SAGITTARIUS.

IF December 16 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m., and from 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight.

For the young on this date there will be unusual success in sports and social advancements. For the elderly, health maintained or improved. Travel, if at all possible, which will bring success or happiness. Considerable correspondence.

The child born on this December 16 will have a modest and retiring nature, and will be inclined to withdraw within its shell, at times when it would be to its advantage to advertise its merits. It will be very honest, very sincere and very loyal. Whatever it does will be well done.

You have a personality which can be fine, but to the world in general you are a sour, taciturn individual, doing ordinary things in ordinary ways. Your real humor, your friendliness and your vitality are not often exhibited outside of the walls of your own home, or in front of any but your most intimate associates. An inferiority complex and a lack of ambition are both guilty of holding you back and keeping you down. You do things well enough, and have brains enough to handle bigger missions in life, but you do not realize your own capacities. You have too peaceful a nature to make much of a fighter.

Your are extremely unselfish, generous to a fault, affectionate and dependable. There is nothing vicious or evil about your mind or spirit, and you are a clean thinker and a clean liver. You never try to shift your burdens to other shoulders, although often carrying a load for some one else. You have too trusting a nature and are often fooled in your judgment of others' characters. You are never twice fooled in the same place, however, and you will never remain any one's permanent door mat. There will be some unhappiness on your part if you marry, as you are inclined to put your loved one on a pedestal. It is not easy for you to forget, and you seldom forgive a wrong from which you have suffered.

Successful people born December 16: John F. Grimke, jurist.
George Whitefield, one of the founders of Methodism.
Stephen H. Thayer, banker and poet.
Edward E. Barnard, astronomer.
Lillian Russell, singer.
Jane Austin, novelist.

Dare Interprets the Mode

O-o-oh, isn't this beach pajama just an irresistible lure to bask on sun-warmed sands? Especially as the trousers are of transparent velvet worn over an orange and beige crepe de chine blouse! (A New York model.)

Paris, Dec. 15.

SAY it with flowers, only just don't shout it—because a few, a very few flowers are again making their appearance in Miladi's wardrobe! Oh, very discreetly, just a suggestion here and there, not the wholesale flower orgy of a couple of years ago.

There have been those couturiers, you know, who have always favored the corsage and boutonniere. Molyneux, Tollmann and Poiret come to my mind.

And then when the floral decoration became too popular for chic, tiny modernistic flowers of leather, of metal and unusual boutonnieres made of fur, for daytime wear. And we have some fragile, oh, so fragile chiffon clusters in contrasting shades for evening, which are worn usually cascading down the back, or fixed on the skirt at the level of the flounce.

And most interesting of all are the flowers selected and often even made to match the floral or brocaded design of the fabric of the gown with which they are worn. That's an idea, isn't it, for a Christmas gift? Take a sample of her flowered dress and make up a hand-made corsage to exactly match it!

She wears dots and a belt right over the monogram of her suit—and look, she has "gallusses" which she can unbutton and let down her suit for her suntan! And in her hand she carries Marynowitsky's three-time beach cosmetic jar, which contains the three aids to beauty that a modern mermaid carries.

* * * *

Do you know what will most appeal to your kiddies on Christmas day? Color—that, and funny shapes and faces! And taking those things into consideration, I just went to work and figured out, for you, oh, ever so many presents for your children—ones that you will just adore! And these you can make yourself, and easily, as you will find out if you send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, which gives instructions for making any number of bright, amusing things for kiddies—which cost hardly anything at all, really!

* * * *

Let's all drop whatever we're doing and dash off to some sunny shore where we, too, can live the life of carefree pleasure, attired in nothing less colorful than the beach pajamas I am sketching today! When does the train leave, sez you? But, no foolin' aren't these adorable pajamas? The trousers are transparent velvet, and the blouse, with large dots, is orange and beige crepe. And the great floppy hat under which we can retire at our pleasure carries a band to match the blouse! My suit case is all packed—is yours?

Don't forget the weekly fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post each week.

FRUIT CAKE FOR HOLIDAYS.
(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Fruit cake will keep fresh for several weeks, so it may be made some time before the holiday season and kept on hand for the many occasions when afternoon or evening refreshments are in order. Part of the fruit cake mixture may well be baked in small pans to fit decorated boxes, for the last-minute Christmas gift. The following recipe has been tested by the Bureau of Home Economics, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

¼ pound citron, cut fine.
1 pound seeded raisins, chopped.
1 pound currants.
2 cups chopped nuts.
4 cups flour.
½ pound butter.
1 cup sugar.
5 eggs.
½ cup cider.
½ cup tart jelly.
½ cup sour cream.
1 cup molasses.
½ teaspoon soda.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon cinnamon.
1 teaspoon nutmeg.

Prepare the fruit and nuts carefully, combine, and rub in 2 cups of the flour so that the fruit is separated into small pieces. Cream the butter, add the sugar, beaten egg yolks, cider, jelly, sour cream and molasses. Sift twice the remaining 2 cups of flour, soda, salt and spices, stir into the liquid mixture, add the floured fruit and nuts and fold in the well-beaten whites of eggs. Bake in a tube pan lined with greased paper in a very slow oven (250 to 275 degrees F.) from 3 to 4½ hours. This cake will weigh from 5 to 6 pounds and will keep fresh for a long time if stored in a tin box.

WORK ON BRIDGE

A LESSON IN DUCKING.

With the above hand South would bid three No Trumps at Contract Bridge, or one No Trump at Auction Bridge. There would be no overcall in either case.

When the hand was played, West led the Seven of Diamonds, East played the Queen, and South took the trick with the King. South, counting his hand, as sure to take four tricks in the majors and the one Diamond, appreciated that a Club finesse was necessary. If it succeeded, he would take five Club tricks; if it failed, he would take four. Consequently, to trick 2, South led the Queen of Clubs and finessed. East won with the King, returned his partner's Diamonds, and West ran four Diamonds, thus saving the game.

Was it hard luck, or should South have made the game with all the big cards that he possessed?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Before playing to trick 2, South should have counted that he was sure to take two Spades and two Hearts with the possibility of another trick in each suit, that he could take one Diamond and a minimum of four Clubs—ample for game provided he could avoid one danger. If he won East's Queen of Diamonds, he would be left with the Jack-Nine; then if the Club finesse lost, South's Diamonds would be led through and if West had led from a five-card Diamond suit, the game would be saved—exactly what happened.

South should have avoided this pitfall by permitting East's Queen of Diamonds to win, playing South's Nine under it; then if East returned the Diamond as was to be expected—either of South's honors would take the trick or force West's Ace. In either event the game would be secure. If West held five Diamonds, East could have only two; if West held four Diamonds and passed the second trick so as to be in position to run his suit in the event of East's regaining the lead, all that could be made by the adversaries would be three Diamonds and one Club; but in view of the size of West's Diamond lead, it was probable that West had five Diamonds and East two. In this event, West could not pass the second Diamond and have the suit led a third time by East.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

PLEASE tell me how to plant tulips in pots for house use.

H. M. P.

Bulbs of tulips intended for bloom during the winter should be planted any time from September until November, the earlier the better. After planting they should be left in a cold frame or open air, covered with a few inches of ashes, peat moss or soil, until the ground begins to freeze, then placed in a cellar or other place where the temperature remains around 50 degrees. They should be given water in moderate amounts after they are brought inside. The whole success in growing tulips or other spring flowering bulbs in the house depends upon getting the roots well established in the pots at a temperature of 40 or 50 degrees before you begin to force the tops at 60 degrees or over. After the roots have developed you can soon induce bloom by keeping the pots in a light, sunny place and watering them every day.

I planted six freezia bulbs in one pot. Please tell me how to care for them. Do they require much sun and how often must they be watered in a warm room? Are freezias flowering bulbs or are they grown for the beauty of their foliage only?

MRS. W. L.

You should have covered your bulbs with only 1 inch of soil. After planting, freezias should be given a good watering and be placed out of doors or in a cold frame; in either case, the pot should be plunged to the rim in ashes. The roots and top growth starts simultaneously, and when the tops are an inch high the pots should be taken into the place where the bulbs are to bloom. They must have plenty of sun, fresh air and water while making growth. Freezias do not like a great deal of heat, but will do well in a place where the temperature remains around 55 to 65 degrees.

Please tell me what makes the leaves of wandering jew turn brown. The plant is quite bare except the ends, which appear to be healthy.

MRS. F. W. H.

This is a natural though provoking tendency of the tradescania (wandering jew). Young plants are always better than old, shabby specimens, but as shoots are readily rooted either in water or in soil, it requires little effort when a plant becomes dilapidated to start a new one.

Please tell me the name of the plant and tree from which the inclosed leaves are taken.

A READER.

The small leaf is from a weed, the large one from a weeping beech.

Please tell me the reason the leaves of my leopard plant always die. I keep it in a north window with plenty of light, but, of course, little, if any, sun. It is potted in soil obtained from the woods. MRS. I. E. B.

Your plant is likely suffering from lack of sun, fresh air and perhaps water. Try moving it to a southern or eastern window and increase the amount of water you are giving it.

The inclosed growth is from a bulb which was given to me. Please tell me the name of the plant.

MRS. K. T. W.

I am sorry, but I do not know the plant, but the growth you inclosed was from a fibrous rooted plant and not a bulb.

Please tell me the name of the plant from which I am inclosing a leaf, also the care it requires.

E. U. S.

The leaf was from a bird's nest fern. Keep the plant in a warm, sunny, well-ventilated place and water it every day.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TREATING EPILEPSY.

IN the treatment of epilepsy the home and not the hospital really determines the ultimate success of treatment. Cooperation and intelligent appreciation of the problem by the family are essential. These were a part of a comment of Dr. W. P. Lucas in discussing a report on the ketogenic treatment of epilepsy made by Drs. Helmholz and Keith. In about ten years of experience with this treatment Dr. Helmholz has tried it with approximately 300 children.

They have found that this diet is of material benefit in about one-third of the cases and it does little or no good in the remainder. They use the word "cured" in reporting 43 cases; "improved" with 32, and "definitely failed to improve" with 66. The treatment is more effective with children than with adults. They classify epilepsy into subgroups and report some groups more amenable to treatment than others.

The diet used is very high in fats and very low in sugars and starches. The object sought is to keep the epileptic always in a state of acidosis. It was in commenting on this method of dieting and general care that Dr. Lucas spoke of the importance of the family doing their part. Epileptics must get exercise, they must not become constipated, they must not overeat, and they must live on food that may not always appeal. If the parents understand the purpose of the plan the chance that it will be properly carried out is greater.

Dr. Lucas reported some cases of epilepsy where hives was a factor. When the foods causing the hives were dropped from the diet the convulsions stopped. Part of the report by Dr. Helmholz's parents should know about. "With the freedom from attacks of epilepsy we see marked improvement in the behavior of children. An almost incorrigible boy will change within two or three weeks so that the parents will say it is surprising. Not only has he had no further attacks, but his demeanor has changed completely."

A part of the report related to drying out epileptics as a means of treatment. This is done by allowing but little fluids in the diet, not much soup and milk, and but little water. In order to facilitate drying the food is not much salted. This so-called dehydration treatment of epilepsy is being tried by many at this time.

Finds $1,368 Check; Rewarded With Cigar

Buffalo, Dec. 15.—A cigar was the reward for the finding of a check for $1,378 in a theater here. When Fred Krazat was making his rounds after the show and turning up the seats he came upon the paper, which was payable to a large builders' supply company.

He notified the theater manager, who had been notified of the losing of the check. The owner came, identified the check and gave Krazat the smoke.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Slouchiness.

It is unfortunately true that in many homes standards of appearance, speech, courtesy and table manners are considerably relaxed when no one but members of the family are present.

Mother goes about the house looking anything but neat and trim. Father takes no pains to control the expression of his grouchy mood. The table is carelessly and unattractively set, and no one seems to feel any obligation to be pleasant, polite or considerate.

On Saturday mornings children are allowed to wear any old clothes because any old thing is good enough for home.

The daily intimate association of grown-ups and children in the home should be as pleasant as possible.

In most homes there is no lack of fundamental good will and mutual consideration.

Children, however, often do not feel the presence of these attitudes because parents take so little pains to see that daily surface happenings properly reflect them.

It requires only very little extra effort on the part of parents to make the difference between a home that is fundamentally sound but graceless and one which adds to the essential needs of childhood a certain degree of pleasure and charm in daily living.

We can not expect children as they grow older to be neat, careful of their appearance, courteous and well-mannered, unless the atmosphere of their homes has taught them these things throughout the years of their childhood.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, December 13, 1930, on shipments sold out ranged from 14.00 cents to 23.00 cents per pound and averaged 16.85 cents per pound.—Adv.

Jean's Santa Claus

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER XXVI.

It was on Tuesday morning that Jean awoke from a long, deep sleep, yawned, sat up in bed, rubbed her eyes with the knuckles of her index fingers, and wondered if Mollie had left for the store. Then she saw that the cover had not been pulled out on Mollie's side, and that Mollie's pillow was as smooth as it had been the night before.

"My goodness!" Jean thought, alarmed. "Mollie hasn't been in at all. Maybe * * * something happened to her."

After the events of the past few weeks, she should have been immune from minor shocks, but Mollie's nearness had been one of the stabilizing forces in her mad adventure, and to find that she had not been in her accustomed place through the night sent a little chill through her warm body.

Mollie had gone out a few minutes before 7 the evening before to meet Lionel.

"This fast social life is about to wreck me, honey," she had told Jean while she dressed. "The funny thing is, I love it. We're having dinner somewhere again tonight. Going to a high-brow concert at Carnegie Hall after. Then something to eat again. They are sure great eaters, that boy and his folks. Not that they eat so much when they get it before them; but when they can't think of anything else to do, Dad says: 'Well, mother, guess we had better get a little food now, hadn't we?'"

Jean smiled gently. "So it's 'Dad' now? You're learning to play the game even better than I had hoped."

Mollie accepted this praise with a broad smile. "Had to, honey. They're darlings, Lionel's mother and dad. And you'd think they were crazy about me. Can't move unless I go along, looks like. Think of yesterday, child. Church in the morning, Long Island in the afternoon, Town Hall last night. It's having to be at the store week days that saves me from a physical breakdown."

After Mollie had gone, Jean had written a long letter to Phillip, not so much because she was thinking of Phillip as that she was not wanting to think of Sandy. Then she had read a little, and finally, at a quarter after eleven, had gone to bed.

And Mollie hadn't come back. But surely if anything had happened, Lionel would have gotten her some word of it.

When she was dressed and ready to leave, Jean took her diary from a bureau drawer, made little crosses on two blank pages, and on the third wrote:

December 16.

Seven working days to Christmas * * * I've been neglecting my diary, though not intentionally * * * I simply forgot it Sunday, and yesterday I was in a fever all day * * * I hardly know where to pick up the loose ends * * * Marcia's death has aggravated all the old problems and introduced some new ones so that I'm in a greater mental stew than ever. The good Lord knows I will welcome Christmas * * * This past week-end has been about the worst * * * But there's no point in putting it in the record * * * Perhaps I will feel more like writing tomorrow * * *

Jean's naive suggestion that her week-end had not been exactly quiet is hardly adequate.

After Sandy had left the office Saturday afternoon to go to police headquarters, she had sat at her desk, trying to write a report of the week's work on the Miniature Baby Plan. She had a feeling, born of hope, that Sandy might come back, or telephone.

When he had done neither at 6:30, however, she went out to supper and, after, to her room.

Sunday morning the papers were full of it. There were pictures of Marcia and Fargason on the front pages and columns of gruesome details. Jean took the brown section from the paper she had bought and left the remainder on the table where she had eaten breakfast. The absence of Sandy's name from the headlines had given her new hope.

That afternoon she took a taxi to East Thirty-fourth street. Ellen was visiting a little girl on the next floor above. Miss Wood insisted that she would go for her, but Jean assured her she had only run in to say hello and would come back later.

Miss Wood went to the door with her. Her eyes were troubled.

"You've seen the papers, Miss Melba?" she whispered. And when Jean nodded gravely, "The poor thing's orphaned now, but I don't know but it's just as well. She was Ellen's mother, you know, the one that was up here just before you came one day * * *?"

"Yes, I know," Jean said softly. "At least I guessed it. What will you do with Ellen?"

"My dear! What I've been doing since I've had her. Her father used to bring me money, but her mother—never! I've been getting along somehow. The Lord will provide."

by the office, but the door was locked and her knocks brought no response. She was tempted to call Sandy at his apartment, but then decided that it would not be wise.

So she went back to the room and arrived in time to see Mollie riding off with Lionel. They sat very close together, Jean observed, and though they passed her midway the block they were so much interested in themselves they did not see her.

Jean was at the factory before 9 on Monday morning. At half past 9 she called the office and was told that Sandy had not come in. She went back to the big room where the typewriters sang, and paced the floor. Ten minutes later Miss Trelling said she was wanted on the phone.

It was Sandy. Could she come to the office at once?

She went, eagerly, reluctantly, hoping, but afraid.

"You've seen the papers?"

Jean nodded. It was the first reference to the subject uppermost in their minds in the five minutes that they had been talking.

"I haven't been arrested as yet," he told her, "but I'm being shadowed. I had to call in half the social register of New York Saturday to persuade them against holding me as a material witness * * * until they could charge me with worse, of course."

"But * * *" Jean asked anxiously, "what are they going to do? If they can't find who killed her?"

Sandy shrugged. "They're sure to Late Sunday afternoon Jean went charge some one with the murder. We may as well accept that. And I suppose I'm the best prospect. When they get all their information together a clever prosecuting attorney could probably send me to the chair on the strength of it."

Jean shuddered and turned her head quickly.

"But," Sandy said presently, "that isn't why I sent for you, Jean, I * * * Have you thought of * * * Ellen?"

"I went out to see Miss Wood yesterday," Jean replied. "Ellen was out, but I learned what I wanted to know. Ellen never knew that Marcia was her mother."

"The point is," said Sandy, "we must find a home for her, preferably out of New York, where no one will ever know."

"But you can't take her away from Miss Wood. You'd break both their hearts."

"I've thought of that. We'll have to get a home for both, though it isn't so easy when you're dealing with an old soul as sensitive as Miss Wood is. She won't accept money unless she earns it. * * * But I've an idea, and I'm leaving the city some time this afternoon if I can manage it. I've a friend in Boston who might adopt Ellen."

"Do you really mean it?" Jean cried hopefully. "But * * * but he couldn't adopt Miss Wood, too?"

Sandy smiled. "Hardly. But he could engage her as a sort of governess, or something of the kind. She can well afford it."

"How long will you be gone?" anxiously.

"I'll be back tomorrow. By air both ways, of course. Remember, however, I'm not off yet. I've the New York detective bureau to dodge before I will be able to get out of town."

When Jean had completed the brief entry in her diary, she put the letter she had written Phillip the night before in her purse, locked the door, and hurried down the stairs. She was worried about Mollie. She had to find Lionel. He would know something about her, surely.

But her exit from the hallway was simultaneous with the arrival of Lionel's car at the curb before the house, and in it was Mollie. Mollie, laughing joyously, and leaning heavily against Lionel.

Jean stared, incredulous. But Mollie popped out, kissed her and backed her into the machine.

"Get in there, darling. We're going to breakfast. Imagine! The bride and groom get up at 8 o'clock to take you to breakfast. It's our wedding breakfast, Jean. And you're the only guest. Aren't you all puffed up?"

Jean, sandwiched between them, could only grin foolishly and wonder.

"We're both a little mad just now, Jean," Lionel told her, grinning happily. "What she's trying to tell you is that we've made a fresh start."

"But * * * but when * * *?" Jean stammered.

"Last night, silly," Mollie giggled. "It just came over me all at once that I couldn't live without him. The big palooka!" she added under her breath, giving Lionel a gentle slap on the back of his neck.

Afterward Jean wondered what had possessed her, but at the moment she didn't think. She just reached up suddenly and kissed Lionel on the lips. And the traffic so thick a false move would have meant a collision. But there was no false move, and every one was happy * * * for the moment.

TOY FUND CHEERED AS GOAL IS NEARED

turned in by various clubs of youngsters, who have done more than their share to make the fund a success.

The Post's plan of spreading Christmas cheer consists of the collection of the fund at the offices of this newspaper.

The entire fund then will be turned over to the Council of Social Agencies for distribution to the various organizations affiliated with it. These organization, in turn, will devote the money to families where there are children who will not receive gifts from their parents because of financial difficulties, sickness or other causes.

Wherever possible the money will be given to the parents, so that they may share in the joy of Christmas by taking care of their own children in the matter of presents. Where this is impossible, the workers of the social agencies will ascertain what the children want and their wishes will be fulfilled to the extent made possible by the size of the fund.

Nobody likes to think of disappointed children on Christmas Day. That thought would spoil Christmas for nearly everyone. For that reason, the Post offers this opportunity to furnish "smiles" for children during the holiday. Remember, the youngsters are not to blame for the hard luck which has overtaken their parents.

Send your check or cash at once. All the money must be in by Sunday, so that the social workers may be able to make the rounds of families and buy the necessary playthings before Christmas Eve. The Toy Fund Editor of The Post asks you to do your bit.

There are only six days in which to subscribe. Do it today.

Your Name
WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, PH.D.

THE family name "Goddard" (also spelled "Godard," "Goddart" and "Godart") is derived ultimately from the old Germanic personal name: "Godehard" (also spelled "Godahard" and "Gotahard") which has left its traces throughout all the countries of Europe. It may be translated, "God-firm," "God-bold," "good-firm," or "good-bold." There are numerous modern forms of this name in Germany. A few of the more common ones are "Gotthardt," "Goddard," "Gottert," "Goedert" and "Godert." However, in a few cases the English "Goddard" has a wholly different origin, its source being the old English "gat-hierde," meaning "the goat-herd," and indicating an original occupation. A certain Simon Goddard and a John Godard are mentioned in the Hundred Rolls, a famous thirteenth century list of English names. A document of the following century mentions a Symon Godhird and an Alicia Goderd.

The family name "Bunker" is frequently found in England, but it is of French origin. In most cases it is a modern shortened form of the French "bon coeur," meaning "good heart," and was originally given as a nickname. Sometimes it means "he who has come from Boncourt." "Boncourt" is a French place-name which means "the good courtyard" or "the good farm." A London church register of the year 1584 records the marriage of a certain Edward Buncker.

The family name "Funk" (also spelled "Funke") is of German origin. It means "spark" and was originally given as a nickname to fickle, frivolous persons. It seems to be first recorded in a German document of the year 1398.

HOW IT BEGAN... By Russ Murphy

SAVE YOUR BACON...
SAXONS WERE CALLED SWINE BY THEIR NORMAN LORDS. SINCE BACON COMES FROM THE BACK AND SIDES OF A HOG—THE PART THAT WOULD GENERALLY RECEIVE A BLOW—"BASTE ONE'S BACON" MEANT TO STRIKE, AND "SAVE ONE'S BACON" MEANT TO ESCAPE A BLOW.
CATS ON SHIPS...
MARINE LAWS SAY THAT A SHIP WITH NO LIVING CREATURE IS A DERELICT AND PROPERTY RIGHTS ARE FORFEITED...SO SHIPS GENERALLY CARRY CATS, TO LEAVE A LIVE CREATURE ABOARD, IN CASE NECESSITY FORCES THE CREW TO ABANDON THE SHIP.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

The Restless Age.

ELIZABETH wants to die. Yes, sir, we said die! No particular reason, just tired of everything and everybody and ready to walk out in the middle of the show. "What is the sense of it?" says Elizabeth. As countless thousands have asked before her.

We have wondered ourself, Elizabeth, and we are supposed to be very, very wise. We began wondering about it when we were about 10—that's a fact, and we are still wondering. We used to sit, a small, still figure, at the top of the red velvet stairs, and ache with wondering. We could not understand why all other small girls had fathers to take them walking on Sunday afternoons. Nor why we felt so strange whenever we stood looking up at the stars at night and why the darkness made us cry. We wondered why we lived in our house instead of in any of the other houses on our street. Why was it ours? We wondered about the chickens. The mother hens were always in such state of excitement over the doings of their brood. They did not seem to have any fun at all. Just worrying all over the place. Dogs raced around and wagged tails and seemed to get something out of it all. Without knowing why, we decided they were very foolish. We even tried to tell that if the cat really wanted to eat a fuzzy chick, no amount of cluck-clucking would stop her. But the poor mother hen worried just the same—probably worried herself into fricassee.

It is the same with us. We worry and we wonder, and life goes sailing by in all its glory while we fret. What sense is there in that? All our feeble questioning is as useless and as fruitless as the hours of childish wondering at the top of the red velvet stairs. We are just children in some one's care. We know not why we came, nor where we go. We can fuss about it and wonder ourselves half crazy and we shall know as little as a tearful child wondering about the ache in her heart. There is no answer. We are just here. Things happen to us. Things hurt us.

But since we must stay a while, why not get a little something out of it all? Elizabeth says that children are unloving and ungrateful. Elizabeth's heart is sore because her married children have all written saying they can not come home for the big Christmas reunion she had planned. Elizabeth can sit at the top of the stairs and wonder. Or she can be grown up and say, "Well, I am not going to be a mother hen, inviting an attack of fricassee, just because one chick is here and one is there and none of them seem to want to come home where they belong." And Elizabeth can plan an entirely different Christmas. A Christmas all for dad. A trip. One of the daughters suggests that Elizabeth and dad come to her home. Why not? What is the matter with that?

Wondering is for childish minds. Wanting to die because married children no longer believe in Santa Claus is for mother hens who want to end up in fricassee. Life is a lively show. Continuous daily. No time out for folks who have not outgrown sitting at the top of the stairs. The show will not change for us, but we must sit it through. So why not try to get something out of it?

Cheer up, Elizabeth. The women who have no children to invite them for Christmas, no dad to share their Christmas whatever it may be, no home to deck for the season's joy, they perhaps may be forgiven for doing a little wondering by themselves at the top of the stairs, but there is not much excuse for you! So snap out of it and help the Salvation Army trim a tree!

Deer Awakens Hunter Only to Meet Death

Garden, Mich., Dec. 15.—Jack Cooper, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who is hunting in the Garden district, is one of the first to bring his deer into town. He was just north of town with four other hunters.

The party separated and Cooper sat on a log, and having got up early for the hunt, dozed off. He was awakened by a snort to find a huge buck standing in front of him. The hunter kept his head and dropped the big fellow. His deer dressed out more than 200 pounds.

City Spends $3,250,000 For Soft Water Supply

St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 15 (A.P.). St. Petersburg has given its citizens and visitors a soft water supply—but it cost $3,250,000. It required 33 miles of 36-inch pipe to convey the water from its source in the Cosme-Odessa regions to the city reservoir. The line runs through tropical vegetation and swamp sections.

The new system gives St. Petersburg and Gulfport, Fla., a potential soft water supply of 20,000,000 gallons daily. Present consumption is 3,000,000 gallons.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—They like comedy these days.

And because they do, comedians, whether young or mature, have become the most popular of all movie players.

WINNIE LIGHTNER

There are exceptions, of course, but not many. Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery, for example, are moving right into the column previously headed by such romantics as Norma Shearer, Nancy Carroll, Buddy Rogers and John Gilbert.

Jack Oakie, in many places, is surpassing the drawing power of others of his company.

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, despite the poor vehicles given them, seem to be filling the theaters, even with competition like Bebe Daniels, Olsen and Johnson stole first honors in the first film and so will soon return.

Winnie Lightner and Joe E. Brown, whether appearing singly or together, are sell-outs. Harold Lloyd's latest comedy, "Feet First," was generally acclaimed as one of his best.

Want Short Ones.

The demand for short comedies being greater than the supply furnished by Rosch, Sennett, the Christies and other smaller companies, others are starting production of them.

Pathe has been in the field for several months, and Universal is making two series, one featuring Slim Summerville, the other Lloyd Hamilton.

It is ever thus in times of depression: People demand comedy when they seek entertainment.

Cut in Stars.

No time is lost in these days of studio efficiency in releasing stars and featured players whose popularity shows any indication of waning. In the last three months there has been a cut of approximately 10 per cent in the number of contract players, most of them stage and other newcomers who failed to go over.

Several stars whose contracts have been allowed to lapse, due to high salary demands, probably will remain away from the screen. There are rumors that several prominent players whose following is less than it once was will be "free lancing" within the next six months.

Christmas Cookies.

Date Rocks.

1 cup butter
2 cups light brown sugar
3 eggs
4 tablespoons milk
1 cup chopped dates
1 cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon salt
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda

Cream the butter and sugar. Add the eggs and milk and beat 2 minutes. Add rest of ingredients. Chill dough and break off bits of it and flatten down, 3 inches apart, on greased baking sheets. Bake 12 minutes in moderate oven. These are moist, rich cookies that remain fresh some time if stored in an air-tight box.

Little Fruit Cakes.

1 cup fat (½ butter)
2 cups light brown sugar
5 eggs
½ cup grapejuice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup walnuts, broken
1 cup chopped raisins
1 cup chopped currants
½ cup chopped candied pineapple
½ cup chopped orange peel
1-3 cup chopped citron
4 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda

Cream the fat and sugar. Add the eggs and grapejuice and beat 3 minutes. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into six small pans which have been fitted with waxed papers. Bake 1¼ hours in slow oven. When cool, wrap the cakes in waxed papers and tie with gay colored cords. These make most acceptable gifts.

Raisin Sticks.

3 eggs
1 cup sugar
½ cup pecans
1 cup raisins
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder

Beat the egg yolks and add the sugar. Mix well and add the pecans, raisins, salt, vanilla, flour and baking powder. Add the eggs whites, which have been beaten. Pour into shallow greased pan. Bake 25 minutes in moderately slow oven. Cut in bars and roll in confectioner's sugar. These are "chewy" cookies.

When running a new tape or elastic through underwear, baste one end of the new tape onto an end of the old tape and when the old tape is drawn out the new one is pulled in place.

TRACTION LINE SUED FOR $20,500 BY TWO

Injuries and Destruction of Auto Claimed in Accident on September 6.

CRUSHED BETWEEN CARS

As the result f an accident September 6 on Fourteenth street northwest near Church street in which an automobile was crushed between two street cars, bound in opposite directions, the Capitol Traction Co. was named defendant in two suits filed yesterday in District Supreme Court, in which damages totaling $20,500 are sought.

Esta R. Orame, of the Chastleton Apartments, and Myree M. Berry, of Rockingham County, Va., are the plaintiffs. Each seeks $10,000 for personal injjuries, while Miss Orame wants an additional $500 for the destruction of her automobile.

Through Attorney Joseph L. Low the women charge that the street car company's motormen were negligent in not keeping a proper lookout and in failing to have their respective trolley cars under control.

It is explained to the court that another automobile pushed the vehicle which Miss Orame was driving onto the northbound track when it was struck by a car and pushed broadside on the other track in such a way as to cause the motor car to be squeezed between the two cars. So tightly was the automobile jammed, say the women, they could not be extricated until the vehicle's top was ripped off.

Girl Who Vanished 'Disappears' Again

"Useless to Seek Me," She Wires From Baltimore to Richmond Police.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Ethelyn Small, who recently disappeared from home only to return with her uncle, W. T. Stone, who had found her dancing in a New York night club, has "disappeared" again.

This time there is no mystery as to the cause of her disappearance. Detective Capt. A. S. Wright received today the following telegram from Baltimore, signed by Miss Small:

"Am 19. Leaving. Mother's consent. Useless to search for me."

When Miss Small disappeared several days ago, Mr. Stone offered $1,400 reward for information leading to the discovery of her whereabouts. The girl's mother, in Miami, said at the time she had heard from Miss Small and that she was "well and happy."

Beats Lindbergh's time!

© UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

Ruth Nichols, already holder of the East-West women's transcontinental record has now added the West-East record to her laurels.

Making a single stop at Wichita, Kansas, she landed at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, N. Y. in 13 hours 21 minutes 43 seconds flying time from Los Angeles.

This betters every transcontinental record except that of one man --Captain Hawks--and this young society girl pilot was within 54 minutes of his time. On the second lap of her trip from Wichita to New York--she beat Hawks' time by 17 seconds! The best previous record made by a woman was bettered by many hours.

On both of her record-breaking flights, Ruth Nichols used Amoco products exclusively--AMOCO-GAS (Aviation Grade), Amoco Motor Oils and Greases.

Chalk up another record to the long list of Amoco achievements!

GROUP WILL STUDY FISCAL BOARD PLAN

Committee to Be Named by Interfederation to Consider Move.

AIRPORT PROBLEM WAITS

Authorization for the appointment of committees to study the question of forming a fiscal relations commission for the District, and to investigate proposals for the beautification of highways entering Washington was voted at a meeting of the Interfederation Conference, at the United States Chamber of Commerce Building last night.

Col. A. B. Barber, president, presided at the meeting, which was the first of the season. Delegates present represented citizens associations in the District and nearby Virginia and Maryland.

Favor Own Inquiry.

The decision to appoint a committee of five to study the fiscal relations commission problem followed an address by George C. Havenner, president of the District Federation of Citizens Associations, in which he expressed belief that the congressional committee named to study the subject would not act in time to affect the 1931 District budget.

Implying that this committee lacked knowledge of the subject, Dr. Havenner said the conference should conduct its own investigation, with a view to having District funds appropriated on a per capita basis of taxpayers.

Airport Problem Waits.

Scheduled action on the municipal airport problem was deferred until the next meting, after Dr. Havenner had expressed the opinion that such propcet was not needed at this time.

Mr. aBrber was authorized to name a committee of three to study E. S. Hege's proposals for improving entrances to the National Capital. Mr. Hege introduced a resolution opposing construction of filling stations closer than 750 feet from highways at the entrance to Washington, but the matter was carried over pending a report from the committee.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 15.—Because of the alarming number of robberies in Annapolis during the last three weeks, Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, who, by virtue of his office is head of the police department, has instituted a change in the police force, which it is believed will work for greater efficiency and alertness, especially at night.

The move is the establishment of a night motor patrol, and to effect it Patrolman Vernon Zang has been withdrawn from day duty and transferred to the night shift. His duty will be to drive the car bearing Sergt. William Curry. The patrol car will supplement the regular night patrol group, which consists of six officers. Police Chief Richard B. Holliday and two patrolmen will continue on day duty.

RUEL SOLD TO RED SOX BY NATS AT WAIVER PRICE

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Our scene is the lobby of a sophisticated hotel connected with Grand Central Terminal. Canaries flutter and chirp in their gilded cages, beating their "dead" wings in the manner of eagles against the bars. Old pitchers and catchers also flutter and chirp, stimulated, some of them, by the condescending ministrations of the major league baseball magnates, beating their dead wings against the smoky air at the recent annual big league winter meeting.

"I am good for a dozen games a year with a half-decent club behind me," says an old right-hander of the National League. "The arm is OK, but Earnshaw would have been a bum with my club last year."

The old boys, long ago resigned to $3,500 a year as scouts and coaches, rock on their heels, squinting at the ceiling, their faces puckered up after years on the ball field.

"Yeah," they reflect, but do not say. "Yeah; well, he will have to learn like the rest of us. It's tough, but so is dying." And they rock on their heels, swinging their overcoats on their arms.

"I just want to play ball," says Lena Blackburn, the old infielder, who enjoyed or suffered one year's authority as manager of the White Sox and played Fred Fulton for Art Shires' imitation of Jack Dempsey. "Give me anything to do with a ball club. I'll pitch, catch, chase flies or chase bats. I'll do anything, just so it's baseball."

BLACKBURN ANXIOUS TO CATCH ON

Old Harry Stevens, the Shakespearean hot-dog and peanut magnate, leans against a pillar. A pitcher with a $2,000-back-salary claim against one of the teams is trying his case before a tolerant and miscellaneous but powerless jury.

"This is a great place to come asking for your rights," says a dead-arm coach who is lucky to have a job when he has one.

"Sir," Mr. Stevens says, "you put me in mind of something. A great English jurist once said, 'for justice any place is a temple and all seasons are summer.'"

"Yeah?" says Mr. Blackburn. "And what did they do to him?"

The elevator door opens and Salvation Dan Howley, the manager of the Cincinnati Reds, steps out.

"New ball club next year," Dan says. "I'm disbanding the old men's home and starting a boy's camp. From now on, I'm Dan Beard, the head of the Boy Scouts."

Moe Berg, of the White Sox, a ball player with more initials in his college degrees than Gene Tunney has letters in his name, goes strolling by.

"Here's a guy who can out-Shakespeare any guy in the house," says Mr. Bill (Big-Shot) McGowan, the umpire, presenting Mr. Berg to Mr. Stevens. "He can speak nine languages and when he pops off at the umpires a guy can't get his delivery unless the guy is a Swede or a Russian or something. Tell him to go to hell in Polish, Moe."

MOE BERG NO BROW LIKE TUNNEY

"Now lay off, please," says Mr. Berg. This young man has passed up a fortune in earnings due to his almost cringing modesty. If he had had the assurance of Mr. Tunney, he, with his book learning, would have been the most famous intellectual athlete of his time. But it hurts him to be called a Brow.

Shenandoah Five Beats Columbus

Local Quintet Bows, 25-15, After Rally Falls Short.

Virginians Lead at Half by 13 to 5 in Central Gym.

SUFFERING lapses on the attack for more than half of the game, the Columbus University five went down to its first defeat of the season last night, dropping a 25-15 decision to the Shenandoah College Team from Dayton, Va., in the Central High School gymnasium.

After the first eight minutes of the game the Crimson was never in the lead, while its offense slowed perceptibly for the remainder of the first half, and the first part of the second the visitors located the basket consistently. Shenandoah led at the intermission, 13 to 5.

Columbus staged a rally midway of the second period to draw up to hailing distance of the visitors, but was unable to sustain its drive. Quigley, Plant, Morris and Mealy featured this attack.

Kind Words Build Grid Team for Coach

BARIUM SPRINGS, N. C., Dec. 14 (A.P.).—The way to make football players, Joseph Johnson will tell you, is this: "Get 'em young, treat 'em nice, tell 'em lots." It is a formula, Johnson, superintendent of the Presbyterian Orphans' Home here, says other coaches might well bear in mind.

He had four teams in play this year. They had 25 games. One was lost by 6 points, four were tied and an even 20 were won. His teams scored 508 points during the season. Opposition teams could manage but 38 points. No single team ever scored more than 7 points.

It was no mollycoddle schedule the teams played, either.

His 100-pounders met Statesville, North Wilkesboro and Newton, tying the first, winning the others by two touchdowns and each scored.

The 115-pound midgets, national champions by virtue of their victory Thanksgiving Day over the Charlottesville, Va., "Fives," won all the six games they played, permitting a single opposition touchdown and scored 154 points.

The 125-pound lads did even better. Meeting corresponding teams from such schools as Junior Orphanage, Lexington, Salisbury and Belmont Abbey, they allowed no enemy scoring in their five games and chalked up 140 points.

Barium Springs' biggest boys played a stiff eleven-game schedule, Winston-Salem, which played a tie with Charlotte's class A high school champions, could do no better with the orphans. Presbyterian junior college and Lees-McRae prep school likewise earned ties.

The teams were chosen from less than 50 boys.

THAT was a great ball game in more than one way, when Georgia Tech ran up 222 points to Cumberland's nothing. The game was played in shortened quarters, the first two being cut to 12 minutes each and the last two to 10 minutes each. Bill Fincher, now line coach for the Tech boys, kicked the first eighteen goals after touchdown, which is something of a record in itself.

It may be news to some of us that a catfish in the Nile swims upside down, but the ancient Egyptians knew it and recorded their observations in stone carvings. The fish have adapted themselves nicely to the inverted life, having changed their coloring so that their backs are silvered and their stomachs darkened—this to avoid attracting too much attention from fish-eating birds.

Hirshberg, End, Elected 1931 Captain of Pitt

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Edward Hirshberg, an end, was named captain of the 1931 University of Pittsburgh football team at a banquet for the 1930 squad, given by the school's athletic council, tonight. Hirshberg, who resides at McKeesport, is a student of journalism.

Stribling Willing to Fight His Way to World's Title

CHICAGO, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—W. L. (Young) Stribling must fight for the world heavyweight championship after all—which is okay with the Striblings, according to "Pa" Stribling, father-manager of the Georgian.

Before Stribling's bout with Tuffy Griffiths in the stadium last Friday night it was announced that the National Boxing Association, of which Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, is president, would recommend that Max Schmeling, of Germany, be replaced by the winner as title holder.

Gen. Clinnin today pointed out that at least two things must be done before the N. B. A. recognizes Stribling. First that the body vote to oust Schmeling for failure to defend the title within six months of winning it. Second, that Stribling defeat the next ranking contender.

Before he left for New York tonight, Pa Stribling said he would deposit a check for $2,500 with the New York State Athletic Commission, to back up a challenge to Schmeling for a title match in New York any time such an event could be arranged.

FIRST TIE GAME IN 8 YEARS.

Durham, N. C., Dec. 14 (A.P.).—The tie game between Duke and Wake Forest this year was the first time a Duke football team has tied a game since 1922, when Presbyterian College and the Blue Devils played a 6-6 tie. The year before the Duke team tied New York University, 7-7.

Navy Contemplates No Move Toward Peace With Army

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 15 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Officials of the Naval Academy are not contemplating any more toward resuming athletic relations with the Military Academy, in spite of the fact that this is the earnest desire of the student body. Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robinson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, stated today that he knew of no move in this direction and had none in view.

While those attached to the Naval Academy would welcome a renewal of the contests in different branches of sport and the statement has been made that any reasonable compromise on the points at issue would be welcome, the general feeling is that the naval representatives have gone as far as possible in this direction.

According to information here, the Military Academy is under contract with Notre Dame for the last game of its schedule for several years in advance. On this account and for other reasons the Naval Academy feels that the other service institution does not care to renew athletics, and the Navy is inclined to accept this as final.

According to present arrangements, the University of Pennsylvania will be the final opponent of the Naval Academy next season, and other big games will be played with Notre Dame, Ohio State, Princeton, Southern Methodist and Maryland.

Football "Atmosphere" Bad; College Drops Sport

WINCHESTER, Ky., Dec. 15 (A.P.). — Kentucky Wesleyan College has dropped football as an intercollegiate sport, giving as reasons it is too costly and "tends to create in the college an atmosphere not in harmony with the higher ideals of scholarship and character."

The change of athletic policy was announced today by Dr. C. M. Dannelly, president. He said the action had the unanimous recommendation of the faculty and had been voted by the board of managers. Dr. Dannelly said Walter Van Winkle will be retained as coach of the basket ball team and other sports which the school will continue to play in intercollegiate competition. He said a program of required physical education for all students will be inaugurated.

The action of the board of managers was taken secretly last week. In the meantime Gordon Betts, Watkin Glen, N. Y., was elected captain of the 1931 football team, and Van Winkle was re-elected head coach for the fourth year.

Dr. Dannelly said football has "proved too costly, it has become a sport for entertainment of the public rather than for development of students or for promotion of physical training of all its students and tends to create in the college an atmosphere not in harmony with the higher ideals of scholarship and character.

Kentucky Wesleyan won two games during the 1930 football season, lost 4 and tied three. The school is a member of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association. One of its losses this year was a 47 to 2 defeat by Army at West Point.

New Charity Grid Clash Planned

Stars of North and South May Play at New York.

4 Gotham Grid Games Have Raised Sum of $838,000.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Hard on the heels of the latest football festivals on behalf of charity, came a suggestion today for a final game in the series, of which four already have been staged here for the benefit of the unemployed.

The idea seemed to be that a combination of Northern college stars would meet a similar team from the South in one of the big New York ball parks December 27, but several complications set in.

Difficulty in rounding up players and lining up a field for the game hampered the initial discussions, which were instituted by the New York Chapter of the Knights of Columbus in conjunction with the American Legion and the mayor's committee for relief of the unemployed. For the Northern line-up, players from Fordham, New York University, Holy Cross, Boston College, Dartmouth, Marquette, Pittsburgh and Penn State were sought.

Thomason to Pick South Team.

The Southern eleven, to be chosen by "Stumpy" Thomason, former Georgia Tech back field star, was sought from players of Kentucky, Florida, Tennessee, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Tulane and Alabama Poly.

In the meantime, auditors for the Salvation Army and the citizens' committee checked and double-checked figures on receipts and attendance at Saturday's colorful Army-Navy spectacle without reaching definite conclusions. Until an official statement is made tomorrow, the preliminary estimates of a $600,000 "gate" and a crowd of 70,000 remained unchanged.

Until the figures are checked, it seemed likely tonight that New York's effort on behalf of the unemployed, through the medium of four football games, would net charity approximately $838,000.

Big Sum to Charity From Games.

In addition to the estimated $600,000 gate Saturday, the Notre Dame all-stars and the New York Giants professional eleven drew $115,000 at the Polo Grounds yesterday. The Colgate-New York University game netted about $73,000, and the match between N. Y. U. and Fordham brought in about $50,000.

Action Is Prevented On D. C. Boxing Bill

Representative Wright Patman (Democrat), of Texas, prevented action in the House yesterday on the McLeod bill to legalize boxing in the District. The measure was on the consent calendar, and when it was reached in the call of the calendar Mr. Patman objected. If objections to its consideration continue, it will be taken off the consent calendar and put on the regular calendar, and action probably will not be had on it this session.

American Drivers Win Auto Race in Germany

Oberammergau, Germany, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Three Americans took the leading prizes in an international automobile race today which had this village of the Passion Play as its goal.

Rudolf Letsche, of Reading, Pa., took first award; Emil Rodsus, of New York, second, and Fred Schroeder, of Brooklyn, third. The prizes were plaques of honor for the greatest distances covered.

Conference Within S. I. A. A. Is Formed

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The formation of a new conference within the membership of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association was announced to the S. I. A. A. convention here today by Dean G. W. Meade, of Birmingham-Southern College.

Dean Mead said Birmingham-Southern and Howard College, Birmingham; Southwestern, of Memphis; Centre College, of Kentucky; University of Chattanooga; Springhill, of Mobile, and Mercer, of Mercer, Ga., have joined the new group, to be known as the "Dixie Conference." Dean Meade is president.

"We are still members of the S. I. A. A., and will continue to be so," Dean Meade said. "These schools have found a common interest in scheduling games and feel we can work together for our own good and for the S. I. A. A.'s good."

Dr. J. W. Provine, president of the S. I. A. A. since the present Southern Conference colleges withdrew from it in 1922, was reelected.

Bowling Green, Ky., was selected for next year's meet.

Tennessee State Teachers' College at Murfreesboro, Murray State Teachers' College of Kentucky, and Mississippi State Teachers' College, Hattiesburg, were admitted to membership, bringing to S. I. A. A. a membership of 36.

PHILS RELEASE PAIR.

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—Tripp Sigman, outfielder, and Harry Smythe, pitcher, have been released outright by the Philadelphia Nationals to the Baltimore International League Club, it was announced at the Phillies' office today.

Both players joined the Phillies during the 1929 season.

Catcher Ends Eight Year Stay Here

Ruel, 35, Joined Club in 1923; Was Hero of 1924 Series.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

HEROLD (MUDDY) RUEL, who has back-stopped for the Nationals since 1923, has caught his last game in Washington Club livery, his sale to the Boston Red Sox having been announced by President Clark Griffith yesterday. While the Nat owner insists that the deal was a straight sale, information has been received at The Post to the effect that the little catcher goes to Boston via the waiver route for $7,500.

Ruel always has been a credit to the diamond, and he has made hosts of friends here. He is a high-salaried man, however, and, with both Roy Spencer and Ed Kenna figuring to outrank him next season, he really was not needed here, and President Griffith and Manager Walter Johnson reluctantly decided to let him go.

Ruel May Be in Line For Pilot Berth.

"I understand that the Red Sox plan to use Ruel regularly," said Griffith last night, "which means that he will be much happier there, as he does not figure to be a regular here."

Muddy was mentioned frequently as the possible successor to Heinie Wagner as Red Sox pilot, but "Shano" Collins recently landed the job. The little veteran undoubtedly will prove to be a handy assistant to the new manager, and his sale to Boston puts him in line for the berth in case Collins fails next season.

Ruel will be 35 years old next February 20 and has been playing professional baseball since 1915, when he graduated from a sandlot team in his home in St. Louis to the Browns. In 1916, he was farmed to Memphis, going from the Chicks to the Yankees in 1918, but not playing that season because of being in "Uncle Sam's" line-up in the World War.

The Red Sox obtained Ruel in a trade in 1921, sending Pitcher Waite Hoyt, Catcher Wallie Schang and two other players to the Yankees in exchange for the little catcher and three others and he remained there until Washington gave the Beaneaters Catcher Val Picinich and Handyman Howard Shanks for him and Pitcher Allan Russell after the 1922 season closed.

Muddy, Though Small, Noted As Iron Man.

Despite his slight stature, Ruel always has been noted as an iron man, catching more than 100 games his two seasons with the Red Sox and the first six with the Nationals. During the Nats' first pennant year, 1924, he saw his name in the line-up 140 times—just five short of the season's schedule.

Muddy always has been regarded as a first-class receiver, but his stick work has been only fair, his lifetime average being .280. He hit better than .300 for only two seasons, his top figures being the .316 compiled in 1923, his first year in Washington livery.

Although not rated highly as a club swinger, Ruel was always dangerous in the pinches. In the 1924 world series, for instance, he hit safely but twice in the seven games, but both of these blows came in the deciding contest, one in the twelfth inning starting the rally which gave the Nats the championship. Muddy hit .316 in the 1925 title set.

Father Time has been slowly but surely creeping up on Ruel and for the past three or four springs he has had trouble in getting the kinks out of his throwing arm. Last season, he was relegated to the second string berth, Roy Spencer beating him out.

Post's Moan Defense Faces Test on Court

Foe of Schaaf Boasts of Knockouts

By NED BROWN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—Another Jack Dempsey.

There can be no such person, will say the old ringworms, who used to have convulsive gasps when the old Manassa Mauler smote those fellows in front of them.

You can't tell that to Max Baer, the man who comes from the Far West to live up to such a name. Max thinks he is the greatest ever and he doesn't mince words in telling anybody, either. Maybe he is. We'll get a good chance to judge for ourselves when we see him in that Madison Square ring next Friday night against Ernie Schaaf.

Another Jack Dempsey, maybe, but certainly the entry to the big city by Jack and Max were absolutely different. Jack came in dolled up in the only suit of clothes he had. Max didn't come that way.

Sharkey Is Mute In Comparison.

An honest-to-goodness Pullman was what he stepped out of in New York, and he was dolled up like a Berry Wall. It wasn't the only suit he had, for besides a fine line of gab that makes Jack Sharkey's mutterings sound like a speech by a mute, Max has an obsession for clothes, and how he can wear them!

No less than 40 suits of clothes does he own, and they are not the "one-flight-up" variety either, but the best of the tailors' craft. There are 20 overcoats in that list of his, too, and we may mention that he buys his silk socks by the gross. Twenty hats are included in his wardrobe and more than a dozen pairs of shoes made to order and a pair to fit with every suit, or any occasion.

You couldn't tell many people that a fellow so engrossed with the idea of dress could be a fighter. But this Max Baer must be a bear in fighting, since his record speaks about 24 knockouts in 27 fights, and even if those two dozen canvas-huggers were saps, they must be counted up as no little achievement. Just to reconcile one to the fact that Max must be a hitter we may mention that K. O. Christner was a two-round victim of his, and old Tony Fuente lasted only one heat.

Max's Eccentricities Include Chauffeur.

There is a lot to tell about what we might call Max's eccentricities. There he is, a fighter with only a year and a half of time before the public, and yet he is toting around a chauffeur to drive his special sixteen-cylinder Cadillac for him, and he has a private secretary, too.

Shades of John L., even of Corbett, or any other past great. Even when they were in the money they thought of no such luxuries. And Max is not rich. He has made only $51,000 since he began fighting. But he has a manager, who has plenty, and maybe it's on that association that Max steps as he does.

There is nothing of the nice things in life which he does not make a bid for. When he first got into the picture of prominence he right away bought his folks a $35,000 house, on which he has made a part payment. It's in Oakland, Calif., where the house is located, which fits Max better than his staid old folks, who were used to living on a cow and sheep farm at Livermore, Calif.

Max Insists on Luxuries.

It's irksome to them to have to mope around such a palatial dwelling. They yearn for the cows and the sheep, these old folks, who were never used to such luxuries as son Max insists on them having. Max is the boss and that's all there is to it, and out there on the Coast they are living with his kid brother and sister and trying to get accustomed to the surroundings.

After all it's a reflection of what Max Baer thinks of himself and his future. He sees $1,000,000 ahead of him. He thinks himself the best fighter in the world and he doesn't quiver at the names of Jack Sharkey, Bill Stribling, Max Schmeling or any of them. They are just "mugs" to him. He can "belt them out" inside any fight limit, he says.

"If," said his optional manager, Ancil Hoffman, a promoter from the West, who is here with him, "you can get by this Schaaf boy, you will be made."

"If, hell," retorted Baer. "I'm by him already. In four or five rounds I'll belt him out and then I hope they give me Sharkey next. But I don't care who they give. They'll all go the same way."

Forsook Cattle Ranch For Engine Factory.

That's Max Baer, now in training at Gus Wilson's Orangeburgh camp, a lad who two years ago was herding cattle, and who later went into an engine factory in his home town, not because he wanted to get a little harder physically than the farm could make him. He went in there to juggle big slabs of iron and steel.

He always had the idea about being a fighter. He used to lay all his working pals low and he was insistent that he would be a champion fighter some day. He still thinks it, s— so conndent is he that he really has engaged the Orangeburgh camp for next summer for training from Gus Wilson.

"This is where I am going to train next summer for the championship fight with Schmeling," is his bold statement to any one who asks him how he likes New York. Just a further show of the contempt in which he holds all opposition.

Protege of Plant Owner's Son.

But going into that engine factory was the right step for him. There he met young Hamilton Pomeroy, the son of the owner of the big plant. Hamilton Pomeroy used to see him kick the stuffin' out of the other hands during the lunch hours. Pomeroy asked him if he wanted to be a fighter and that was right in Max's wheelhouse. Right then he quit the job after having it three or four months, and branched out to win his first fight right off the reel and get $25 for it.

Through a score of fights he went and in his last bout, which furnished a casualty of the ring, in that his victim, Frankie Campbell, died as a result. He got $9,100.

He's on his way, he says, but if it's color that will get him there Max has it in the variety of a rainbow. He beams personality and his great boasts do not irk those who listen to him. His pleasant way makes him friends, but in that ring he is a demon. More than that once he gets hit, he can take it, they say.

We watched him at Orangeburgh the other day and saw Jack DeMave hit him a terrific right-hand smack on the chin. Max didn't budge, but he felt the blow.

"That's a boy," he shouted. "Now let's go." And go he did, for in the next flurry he had DeMave down and out and kept up the afternoon's work by knocking out another lad.

Maybe another Dempsey and maybe not, but certainly we'll say for Max that he has two of the heaviest hands we ever saw on a fighter, and just a word of advice to Ernie Schaf is that he keep his chin out of the way next Friday night.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Amite Purse, allowances, for all-aged horses, at 6 furlongs, features the Jefferson Park card, today, and nine are to start. TIME will have ESSARE to beat. HOT TIME would have beaten War Instigator in the contest of last Thursday had the distance been 6 furlongs instead of 5½ furlongs, as he was gaining rapidly at the end and only beaten by a half length, in 1:07, and he came from sixth place in the stretch run.

ESSARE in his last start, which was at Bowie, was second to Prometheus, which makes him dangerous in this race. MARTIS should be next best. He was third to Thistle Ann and Rueful Saturday and was the choice. C. V. Whitney has an entry in the race, but both FUDGE and AGITATOR seem in over their heads. FUDGE is a 2-year-old, and was second to Kentucky Bill last week.

FIRST RACE—GUIDE LEFT is entitled to another trial and is selected to win the first race, for 2-year-olds, but his last race should be ignored, for it was far off form, but at Bowie was second to Spanish Bonero, which effort would about win this dash. GUIDE LEFT was formerly in the stable of John D. Hertz, but was transferred to Bert Mitchell, the former Hertz trainer. SUN PORTER and WEST VIRGINIA look like the contenders. SUN PORTER has a good flight of speed, while WEST VIRGINIA has won two races at this meeting and beat fields almost as strong as this one in both. EYE WHITE, scratched yesterday, may be dangerous.

SECOND RACE—POLY is selected to win the second race. He was out of the money in his last race, which event was won by My Hobby, the odds-on POLY being 1 to 4. POLY is an unusually fast sprinter when in form, and he should never leave the result in doubt. He does not have to be at his best to win this dash. VIRADO may be the contender. He raced well in the West. FOCUS, which was third to The Abbott last Thursday, is a dangerous horse, but outclassed. He should be in the money on his last start.

THIRD RACE—The third race has little of class to choose from. PARTICIPATE looks best. Last week he ran third to Dark Simon, a good horse, but he was nine lengths back. There is no comparison betwen this field and that one, and he might get away with this purse. OFORD is regared as the most probable contender. He ran Favorite II to a half-length finish in his last start, and that race points to him as the chief contender. Chaff is a show possibility, and drops down among a class of horses far below the last field he met, where he had little consideration.

FIFTH RACE—KADIAK has been running too well to overlook him in the fifth race. He was 1 to 2 to beat Bozo last week, and won by two lengths. He will be at more liberal odds in this race, because of the backing that will show up for BOB KERNAN, since he beat Cockrill recently. The race is betwen the two, but KADIAK is much more consistent than the latter. MORSNUFF will show early speed and may be hard to catch.

SIXTH RACE—WATER FOWL is picked in the sixth race. He has improved very greatly since going South, for his Maryland form was not the best. He has won two races at New Orleans and will not have to improve over his last race, in which he beat Vanish and Lansquenet to get the decision here. REIGH OLGA has a chance, and should be second, having been third to Aviator in a recent race, and has shown improvement in other contests. VOLE did not run his race last out and should return to good form in this, in which he has a chance.

SEVENTH RACE—FAIR FOLLY is best in the seventh, having been second to Aviator in the race referred to above. There is no such opposition in this race as in the Aviation event. HERENDEEN doubtless will be the favorite. He does too much racing to be at his best at this season, but should be the contender. FAIR FOLLY is improving each race, and was fast in Maryland. BRIGHT FLAG, a recent winner, will probably get the show money.

Lear, District Boy, Honored at Princeton

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Herbert F. Leary, jr., of Washington, a member of the class of 1932 at Princeton University, has been awarded a minor "P" as assistant cross-country manager for the past season, according to announcement today by the undergraduate athletic council.

A total of 51 athletes and four team managers will receive Princeton athletic insignia in soccer and football. The awards include the minor "P" to eighteen members of the varsity soccer team, while 33 members of the scrub football squad were given the "APA."

20 Exhibition Games Booked by Red Sox

Boston, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—"Shano" Collins, newly appointed manager of the Boston Red Sox, will lead his first squad of players to the training camp at Pensacola, Fla., on February 19. This vanguard will include all of the pitchers and catchers and recruits. The veterans will not report until March.

The training games schedule, announced today by President Bob Quinn, includes 20 games, all with minor league clubs. Only four of these contests will be played at Pensacola and the others at stop-offs on the return trip north.

The Red Sox will, as last year, delay play against major league clubs until their preseason intercity series with the Boston Braves here on April 11 and 12.

Quinn's Southern schedule called for games with Louisville, Birmingham, Chattanooga, Nashville, Indianapolis, Columbus and with the House of David, a semipro club that will visit the Sox's training camp.

STAKE RACES DRAW FINE FIELDS

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 15.—Closing of the three most important stakes to be decided at the Louisiana Jockey Club plant this winter reveals the high-class performers which will be seen in action at the Fair Grounds during the 41-day session, opening January 1 and closing on February 17. Never in the history of racing in the Crescent City has such an aggregation of turf stars been engaged.

The three stakes which closed were the New York Handicap, carrying an added value of $5,000; the great $10,000 New Orleans Handicap, and the Mardi Gras Handicap, with a value of $5,000. The New Orleans Handicap will be run on Saturday, January 31, while the Mardi Gras Handicap is the feature for the closing day of the winter session, Saturday, February 17.

New Orleans Handicap Draws Sun Beau.

Heading the list of entries for the New Orleans Handicap, which is at a mile and one-sixteenth, is America's greatest race horse—Sun Beau. This sterling son of Sun Briar, owned by Willis Sharpe Kilmer, is due to arrive at the Fair Grounds on January 1 and have 30 days of training to fit him for this event. Sun Briar will be under the personal direction of "Doc" Crawford, one of the leading trainers of the country.

Ten stake events will be crowded into the 41 days of racing at the Fair Grounds this winter. The remaining seven stakes, which include the Pontchartrain Handicap, Rex Handicap, Jack L. Dempsey Memorial Handicap, Crescent City Handicap, Edgewater Gulf Handicap, the Derby Trial Handicap and the Louisiana Juvenile Sweepstakes, will not be closed for entries until one week prior to the dates set for the running of these feature attractions.

In comparison with the number of stake nominations received for 1931 with the nominations for last season, it is apparent there is a smaller falling off as regards percentage than any of the other winter tracks.

Schoor Sends Horses to Fair Grounds.

Nominations for the $100,000 Agua Caliente Handicap dropped nearly 50 per cent. The New Orleans Handicap in 1929 closed with 78 nominations. This year the falling off was less than 15 per cent. However, the class of thoroughbreds nominated makes the race one of the greatest to be decided during the Fair Grounds session.

Surprise was expressed when E. B. McLean nominated Jock, Silverdale and Crossbones for the New Orleans Handicap. It was generally believed the Washington turfman would ship to Miami. Trainer Schorr, however, decided stake events at the Fair Grounds were too valuable to be passed up.

Several of the stars nominated for the 1930 New Orleans Handicap are again engaged. Patricia Marian, Thistle Ann, Lightning Jones, Dinah Did Upset, Galahad, Paul Bunyan, War Instigator and Tantavity again are engaged and considered probable starters.

Pimlico Race Track Cuts Purses in Economic Move

Dixie Handicap Reduced to $15,000; Other Fixtures Slashed; Preakness Remains at $50,000; 2 Stakes Eliminated.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE Dec. 15.—The Dixie Handicap has been cut from $25,000 to $15,000 and the total amount of money offered in 1930 from $225,100 to $195,000, a saving of $29,500 for its 1931 spring meet by the Maryland Jockey Club in its economy program to reduce the high cost of horse racing at Pimlico. These facts were revealed tonight by Matt J. Daiger, secretary and general manager of the organization.

It was necessary to take this economy step for several reasons, Daiger explained. He pointed out the business depression all over the country and that conditions may not be any better next spring, the falling off in receipts the past fall and the big purses offered by the club. The added money the Maryland Jockey Club gives is larger than at any of the three other Maryland tracks.

Daiger said, however, that if business returns to what it once was the club would consider the raising of the stakes cut and the restoring of those eliminated for the 1931 spring meet.

The $50,000 Preakness remains as it has been and will be run on the last Saturday of the meet, May 9.

Two $5,000 Races Eliminated.

In its economy wave the club eliminated two $5,000 stakes, the Rennert Handicap, which was for 3-year-olds at 6 furlongs, and the Spring Juvenile, a dash at 4½ furlongs for juveniles. The Spring Handicap was cut from $7,500 to $3,000, the Jennings Handicap from $6,000 to $3,000, the Green Spring Valley Steeplechase from $5,000 to $3,000, and the Pimlico Oaks from $5,000 to $3,000.

The Rennert handicap and spring juvenile will be $2,000 races next spring. The Jenhings handicap will be for 3-year-olds instead of for 3-year-olds and upward. This race and the Pimlico Oaks, which were at a mile and 70 yards last spring, will be at a mile and a sixteenth next May.

In 1930 the total amount of money added to stakes was $118,500, and next spring it will be $87,000, a difference of $31,500.

Reducing of the several stakes in no wise will affect the owners of high and low class selling platers. For the spring meet there will be run 6 $2,000 purses, 10 at $1,500 and 50 at $1,300.

Budget for Spring Meeting.

The budget made out by the Maryland Jockey Club was only for the spring meet, and provides for one $1,500 race daily, except when the Preakness and Dixie are run, on the two days when the $2,000 races are held, and on one day when three $1,500 events, the graded handicap, are scheduled.

Stake blanks were placed in the mail today and entries for them will close on January 5. Nominations for the running of the 1931 Pimlico Futurity will also close on the same date.

The usual several cups and pieces of plate will be offered for the following stakes to be run next spring:

Preakness — Three-year-olds, colts and fillies, $50,000; mile and three-sixteenths.

Dixie—Three-year-olds and upward, $15,000; mile and three-sixteenths.

G. W. AND CATHOLIC U. FIVES IN DEBUTS TONIGHT

Both Teams Under New Coaches

Pixlee Sends Colonials Against Shenandoah Five.

Cards, With Gagnon in Charge, Face Normal Team.

TWO new teams and two new coaches will make their bows in District collegiate basket ball circles tonight. They are George Washington, with Jim Pixlee, who hitherto has confined his efforts to the Colonial football teams, and Catholic University, guided by Chick Gagnon, who has taken over the duties formerly handled by Fred Rice.

Catholic U., with two sophomores teamed with three veterans, oppose the Maryland State Normal School five in the Brookland gymnasium, at 8:15 o'clock.

Outlook of Colonials Brightest in Years.

While the two coaches have had little to say about their prospects, the respective student bodies are looking forward to successful seasons. At George Washington the court outlook is considered the best in several years, owing to the presence of the sophomore talent that shone so brilliantly last winter in first-year competition.

Coach Pixlee will start Forrest Burgess, a Washington boy, and Jack Conner, at forwards; Fred Mulvey at center, and Arthur Zahn, another Capital native, and Johnny Fenlon, at the guard positions. Pixlee as yet does not feel certain that he has selected the best five players of his squad, but he does expect those nominated to start tonight to give a fairly good account of themselves. In reserve he will have Dick Castell, Jack Berry and Max Jeweler, guards, all of the 1929-1930 varsity, and the following from last year's freshmen: Wayne Chambers, center or guard; Clyde Romig, center or guard; Lyle Sturtevant, guard, and Billy Wells and Lee Carlin, forwards.

Through the acquisition of Buster Sheary and Lou Spinelli, both guards of last winter's yearlings, the Catholic U. team has gained speed and offensive strength. Both Sheary and Spinelli combine fast leg work with accurate shooting, meanwhile doing a good job of holding down the other team's attack.

John Hickey Wins Post at Center.

Coach Gagnon has placed three veterans in the forward and center positions, with Capt. Joe Walsh and Johnny Oliver serving "up front" and John Hickey doing the pivot man's work. Hickey only recently joined the Cardinal cagers after a season with the cross-country team, but in a comparatively short time has regained his old court form.

Later in the week both G. W. and C. U. will resume competition, the former meeting Baltimore U. Friday night in the downtown gymnasium, and the Brookland team traveling North to play Rider College at Trenton Friday and Manhattan College at New York on Saturday.

Tomorrow night the Columbus University Five of the Washington Collegiate Conference, will journey to Shepherdstown, W. Va., to engage Shepherd College. It will be the first foreign appearance for the Crimson.

Pinckert's One Bad Day Wrecked Trojan Offense

Los Angeles, Dec. 14 (A.P.).—The fact that Erny Pinckert, University of Southern California half back named all-America in the Associated Press consensus, was one of the most important cogs in the Trojan machine was glaringly evident when the team was beaten, 7-6, by Washington State College.

Pinckert had an off-day in his role as blocker, and the Trojans' high-powered attack could not get under way.

Argentine Fighters Go Home for Winter

Victorio Campolo arrived soon after his bout with Jack Sharkey in New York fell through. Justo Suarez, lightweight sensation, has come home until 1931. Julio Mocoros, another local lightweight headliner, has trekked homeward from South Africa.

Buenos Aires has fight crowds exceeding 30,000 during its summer, the United States winter. Local promoters are angling for foreign stars to battle the Argentine favorites. Kid Chocolate and George Godfrey are mentioned as prospective invaders.

Five New Grid Coaches On Coast Next Season

Seattle, Dec. 14 (A.P.).—At least five colleges on the Pacific Coast will have new football coaches next season.

They are California, Montana and the University of California at Los Angeles in the Pacific Coast Conference; College of Puget Sound in the Northwest Conference and Gonzaga University of Spokane.

DUKE STARTS COURT YEAR FRIDAY

Dedicates Gymnasium Against Villanova With New Team.

Special to The Washington Post.

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 15.—Officially opening the spacious new Duke gymnasium, the Blue Devil Basket Ball Team, with only two of the regulars of last year, will meet the Villanova Team here Friday night.

Although three of the greatest basket ball stars in Duke history were lost by graduation last year, Coach Eddie Cameron is pleased with the way the candidates for these posts have been showing up in practice and thinks the team will be "all right."

Last year the Blue Devils had the most successful basket ball season in the history of the school, winning eighteen out of twenty games, including tournament play. Five brilliant first string men were able, but when the Duke coach made a substitution the team was weakened.

First Two Teams Play on Par.

This season there are three full teams, with the first two playing about on a par. The scrimmages between the two first teams are spirited and scrappy, with individual stars on each team. The first five is composed chiefly of veterans, while the second is made up of sophomores.

Although Coach Cameron has not made a definite selection of men for the various posts, Cocaptains Rogers and Carter, veterans, are playing at forwards, Cocaptain Croson at center, and Shaw, veteran, and Colley, sophomore, guards. On the second team there are two sophomore guards, Robertson and Cochrane. Hill, a sophomore center, and Gerber, veteran, and Capehill or Horne, sophomores, forwards.

Hack Wilson Quintet Receives Many Offers

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Basket ball teams in Cleveland, Washington, Chicago, New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and many other cities are anxious to schedule games with Hack Wilson's Martinsburg quintet, the National League star announced at his home here today, exhibiting more than 100 letters from team managers in these various places.

Wilson is coaching Hose Company No. 5 here and is to start his team's season this week. He has announced that he will take part in some of the games, playing a guard position.

Syracuse Quintet In Debut Wednesday

Special to The Washington Post.

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 15.—With visions of capturing the Eastern intercollegiate basket ball title the midget Syracuse University basket ball quintet will open its home season at Archbold Gym Wednesday night against Toronto. On Saturday the crack Western Reserve five, which handed Pittsburgh an artistic lacing a week ago, will oppose the Orangemen here.

Syracuse will have the same line-up which romped through all but one of the leading Eastern quintets last year. Capt. Ken Beagle, former Capt. Lou Hayman, Ev. Katz, Slim Elliott and Dan Fogarty formed the almost unbeatable combination of last winter and they are back stronger than ever.

Beagle and Hayman will start at forwards, with Elliot at center and Katz and Fogarty in the guard positions. The sole problem confronting Coach Lew Andreas is one of substitute material.

Chicago Wrestlers To Meet Penn State

State College, Pa., Dec. 15.—The University of Chicago wrestling team will meet Penn State in a dual meet on the State College floor, February 6, marking the second successive year that the Maroon grapplers have appeared here. This announcement was made today at the offices of the athletic association after confirmation of the date by Maroon officials. Chicago replaces Massachusetts Institute of Technology on the Lion card. The Boston team originally was scheduled to appear here a day later, February 7, but the engagement was canceled.

GREETED BY BABE.

Guy Cantrell, Detroit Tiger pitcher, always will remember the first time he faced Babe Ruth, for Babe proceeded to make his thirty-sixth home run of the 1930 season.

SEEDS PROVES SPEEDY.

Until Bob Seeds joined the Cleveland Indians it was a toss-up as to whether Eddie Morgan or Johnny Burnett was the fastest on the paths, but their team mates say that Seeds can beat either one by possibly a stride.

TIGERS PLAY MEDICOS IN OPENER

Hampden-Sidney Five Starts Tomorrow, Led by Sloan.

HAMPDEN-SIDNEY, Va., Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The Hampden-Sidney Tigers will open the basket ball season here Wednesday in a contest with the quintet from the Medical College of Virginia.

Bill Sloan, of Maryland, is captain of the Tigers. He will play alternately at center and forward.

Four letter men were lost to the team this year through graduation last June. They were Willis, Harris, Lawson and Allen. Their plays are to be filled from a squad, including Waverly Jefferson, Luther Price, Joe Bradford, Taylor Martin, Kenna and Jim Crawley, Handy Moore, Maynard Berryman, Shirley Mullind, James Hemphill, Merle Smith, J. J. Lawson, John Bruner, George Krupka, Hoffman Gordon and Charlie Howell.

Lloyd Arehart will be unable to play until later in the season. He still is suffering with a dislocated shoulder received in the William and Mary football game on December 6. When Arehart joins the squad, Coach Charles Bernier can put a team of 6-footers on the floor.

"Greasy" Neale Quits As Clarksburg Pilot

Clarksburg, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Charles Clark, manager of the Clarksburg team of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League, announced today that Earle "Greasy" Neale, who was recently appointed football coach at West Virginia University, would not return here next summer as manager of the baseball club.

Field work planned for the summer by H. A. Stansbury, university athletic director, will prevent Neale from accepting the managership. The local club is listing appliactions for a new manager.

Neat Punting Is Factor In Carideo's Selection

South Bend, Dec. 14 (A.P.).—Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's All-American quarter back by practically unanimous choice, gave one of the greatest exhibitions of punting ever seen on Midwest gridirons when the Ramblers ran over Northwestern, 14-0, at Chicago.

Carideo's punts three times rolled outside between the Northwestern 1 and 10 yard line, nullifying the big Purple backs.

TIGERS NEAR RECORD.

HAWKS PLAY CELTICS ON SUNDAY

Game Last at Park, Washington Club Announces.

THE Mohawks and St. Mary's Celtics will clash next Sunday in the last game of the season at Griffith Stadium, Secretary Edward B. Eynon, jr., of the Washington Baseball Club, announced last night. In view of the promised cold weather for this week Eynon has delayed the beginning of work on the stadium diamond until next Monday.

While the Apaches had hoped to play the Seaman Gunners, winners over the Mercury eleven, the Mohawks stepped in and claimed their turn at the stadium when it appeared certain that the Alexandrians would beat the District champions.

In an effort to regain some of their prestige, lost when the Apaches took their measure in the annual championship clash, the Mohawks are going to add some players that they hope will give them an even chance with the Celtics regardless of how many Marine stars the Alexandrians can muster.

Hawk Magnates Saw Contest.

The two Mohawk magnates, Patsy Donovan and Rob Roy Mackey, witnessed Sunday's parade of the wooden soldiers and in face of that fact they are confident that their team can win.

The game may revert into a two-sided padding match. If it does, the Mohawk probably will not play second fiddle.

Coach Eddie Abbey has called a practice session for the Hawks tonight. Players will meet at the clubhouse at 7 o'clock.

Last Sunday's game ended the season for the Apaches in all probability. They figured to reach their peak for the Mohawk game and did. Manager Seymour Hall had wind of the fact that the Celtics were "loaded" for last Sunday's game but could do nothing but go through with the contest.

Any season which includes a victory over the Mohawks is a mighty successful Apache season, according to Hall and his players.

STOPPED BIG GUNS.

Danny MacFayden, spectacled Boston hurler, never did any more successful pitching in a pinch than he did on May 16 when, with the bases filled, he struck out Babe Ruth and Tony Lazzeri and got Lou Gehrig on an easy fly to center.

Business, C. U. Cub Fives Feature Scholastic Card

Five Other Contests Are Listed for Decision Today.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE first distinct rumblings of a busy scholastic basket ball year will be heard today when six local and nearby schoolboy teams get going in campaigns during which there will be little respite until spring.

About the biggest feature of the day of features is Business High's game with Catholic University Frosh. Coach Woodworth's scrappy Stenographers were scheduled to meet the Cardinal Plebes yesterday afternoon, but agreed to postpone the tussle until tonight when it will be staged as a preliminary game to the C. U.-Maryland State Normal game at Ryan Gymnasium.

C. U. Frosh Making Debut.

It will be the first time out for the collegians and they will have their hands full with Woodworth's charges, who look good this year.

Another feature of the day will be Eastern's practice game with the strong semipros, the United Typewriter Grays, whose friendly services Coach Guyon has gained to further coach the Lincoln Parkmen in experience.

Eastern no doubt will stick to the Lieb, Kane, Noon and Shirley quartet, with any of four cubs likely to receive the call to make it a team.

Against Woodward, Western will be playing in its second game of the week, having defeated Landon yesterday by the score of 26 to 13. And before the week is out the charges of Coach Cliff Moore will have seen action in three more tilts, setting an early season mark for activity.

Buscher Temporarily Lost To Western.

Coach Moore announced last night that Western would be without the services until after Christmas of Everett Buscher, who with Tony Latona, makes up Western's scoring threat duo. Buscher's knee, injured during his yeoman work with Western's grid team, has gone bad again. Coach Moore used the big athlete in the Baltimore City College game last week, but his knee was twisted once more, precluding any exercise more strenuous than walking until after the holidays.

Woodward is said to be able to give Westerners a good run for their money, having been practicing since early in the fall, but experience is expected to count today, and this is Woodward's first game.

Central will be appearing in its fifth game of the early season when the Little Generals of Washington-Lee are met at Ballston. Central, well recovered from its beating at the hands of Georgetown's Frosh last Friday, is keen to resume activities in its own class again.

Wash.-Lee Promises Trouble To Central.

The W.-L. squad is likely to offer Central real trouble. The Virginians have real performers in Mortimer and Goodwin, grid stars, turned basket men.

Emerson's basketers will be out to score their first win of the season and it appears that the desire will not be fulfilled against the strong Alpha Delta Omegas, of Alexandria.

Georgetown Prep starts what looks like a good season today against Rockville High with three tried and trusted regulars in the line-up. Capt. "Bull" Heekin, guard, the outstanding Prep performer of last year, is back in the game and appears to have gained in caliber after the lay-off.

Other veteran Prepmen in the game today will be Murphy and O'Brien. Newcomers include Moore and Peralta.

Catholic U. Boxers Face Six Matches This Season

Matches With Mass. Tech, Bucknell, St. John's and Temple Arranged; Lafond Succeeds Mitchell as Coach.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S boxing team will fight six matches this winter, it was learned yesterday. Four matches have been definitely arranged and arrangements for the other two are expected to be made shortly.

Eddie Lafond, freshman football coach, director of intramural athletics and a former Catholic U. athlete, will coach the Cardinal boxers. He will call out candidates for the teamteam early in January. Lafond takes the position formerly occupied for seven years by Ted Mitchell, who resigned last spring.

The inaugural match will be held on February 3, with the team representing Massachusetts Institute of Technology furnishing the opposition in the spacious Brokland gymnasium. Other matches definitely scheduled are February 14, Bucknell, at Lewisburg, Pa.; February 19, St. John's of Annapolis at Brookland, and February 28, Temple at Brookland.

Negotiations with several Southern schools are now under way in an effort to schedule a match for February 7. This is to be a home match, but as yet the Brookland authorities have found no opponent willing to make the trip here.

A match with Cornell on March 7 at Ithaca, N. Y., will in all likelihood be arranged. The two schools are carrying on correspondence relative to the details.

Last year the Catholic boxing team won three matches and lost one in an abbreviated season. Through June graduations the team lost its outstanding star, Jack Malevich; heavyweight, and Ross Zeno, light heavyweight, but a strong nucleus for another successful team is available with Rocco Biasi, captain-elect and welterweight; Harry DiGiacomo, lightweight, and John Pasquale, featherweight.

GRABOWSKI COMES BACK.

John Grabowski, released by the New York Yankees to St. Paul a year ago, is slated to be first string catcher for the Detroit Tigers next season.

Cleveland to Retain Farm at Frederick

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 15.—Although it was stated Saturday in Frederick, Md., that the Cleveland Club, of the American League, had abandoned the Frederick (Blue Ridge League) Club as a farm, after operating the Little Warriors since the middle of 1928. The Indians will be back there in 1931, according to no less an authority on the subject than President J. Vincent Jamison, jr., of the Ridge loop.

After reading in the papers that Cleveland was through with Frederick, President Jamison hastened to issue a statement of denial. He said while in Montreal at the annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, he talked with Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland baseball system, and quoted Evans as follows:

"The Cleveland Club wants to do all it can to help your league and will be back in Frederick again next year. Just let me know when you will have your annual meeting and I will be on hand, as in former years."

Lopez Dons Mask In Winter League

Brooksville, Fla., Dec. 14.—Al Lopez, Brooklyn Robins catcher, can't get enough baseball, it seems.

In response to a distress call from the semipro team here he has taken charge and is catching for them.

In the first game as captain, Lopez poled out four two-baggers and helped retrieve the town's honor as his club defeated the visitors, 15 to 4.

Two weeks before, the rivals had held Brooksville to a 3-3 tie. Al's batting accounted for half the team's winning runs.

BLOW WINS SOCCER TITLE

Stasulli Hero as Park View Bows by 1 to 0 Score.

BENNIE STASULLI, weighing 65 pounds and so short that he can almost hide behind a soccer ball, works on the theory that the bigger they come the harder they fall, or at least that is the way it appeared yesterday when his individual efforts were the deciding factor in Blow School's 1-to-0 victory over Park View. The conquest gave Blow the Municipal Playground departments' elementary school senior city soccer championship.

Bennie is listed in the line-up as left half, but he is anything but orthodox in his soccer. He roamed all over the field, took shots at Park View's lanky goal keeper, defended his own uprights fiercely when in danger, and, in short, wherever the ball was there was Bennie. He could have had a fine game of push ball with the regulation soccer sphere and his diminutiveness was accentuated by a pair of nifty long pants.

Suit Good Goalie for Winners.

Yes, Blow did have ten other players, all of whom were pretty good, but not as fearless or active as Bennie. Suit in goal for the winners was called on but infrequently to block Park View shots for a score, but he performed well on these occasions. Decker, Martin and Kaplan also performed above the average for the winners.

The first half was scoreless, although Blow had many scoring opportunities. Smith, Park View goalie, did some clever blocking, while Bovello, Scull and Shehan aided materially in the defense. Blow had just a slight edge at this stage of the contest.

Park View, led by Wellins, Hutchinson and Marcellino, threatened seriously at the start of the second half. For a while Bennie and his teammates were hard pressed, but out of a scramble in front of the Blow goal emerged propelling the ball. Some of the Park View spectators claimed that he dribbled between one of the tall Park View players' legs, but this could not be verified. At any rate he took the ball out of danger and launched the attack on the foe's goal that resulted in the only marker of the day. It came after a hard scramble within 10 yards of the losers' uprights, Kaplan breaking away to score.

Park View "Blows" Two Opportunities.

In the last five minutes of play Park View had two scoring opportunities and it "blew" both. Just five minutes before the final whistle the losers were awarded a penalty kick, but failed to convert. With but one minute to play, Park View was given a free kick 20 yards from the goal, but once again failed.

With the senior championship out of the way, playground officials are now preparing for the finals in the junior series. Tomorrow Curtis-Hyde will play the Park View Juniors on the Iowa Avenue Playground, and on Thursday the winner of this game will play Peabody, Eastern section champions, for the junior city title.

STOCKS DIP DESPITE FEW BRIGHT SPOTS

Drop in Leading Industrials and Utilities Checked; Rails and Oils Sink.

3,440,170 SHARES SOLD

New York, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The decline in leading industrial and utility stocks was checked today, but the weakness of rail, copper, oil and specialty shares put the balance of net changes on the downside.

Cotton and sugar futures, as well as bonds, were weak. Corn, however, rallied and wheat quotations firmed, partly in sympathy with Winnipeg.

Trading on the stock exchange was active. In fact, the volume in the first half hour, when prices generally broke to new lows as the week-end's accumulation of selling orders was executed, reached a rate of about 1,500,000 shares an hour. The brisk pace was maintained on a rebound from the early quotations, but the afternoon market, when the rally ran into trouble, was much quieter. Sales for the day totaled 3,440,170 shares, the largest volume in a month.

Net gains of a point in U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, General Electric, Johns-Manville, Union Carbide, Consolidated Gas and Westinghouse, all of which touched new minimums in the morning selling, measured the stubborn resistance offered by the stocks to which the market looks for leadership.

Many Rails Lose 2 to 4.

The performance of the coppers and rails in the late trading, however, was far less impressive. Some of the carriers closed 5 to 7 points under Saturday's final prices; many were down 2 to 4. Anaconda Copper, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Kennecott and Calumet & Arizona lost 1 to more than 3 in a drive that appeared to come from the bear quarter.

Petroleum shares, under the leadership of the Standard Oils, were soft. The Standards of New Jersey and New York, among others, gave ground freely and virtually every member of the group touched a new low.

Announcement that a $20,000,000 syndicate had been formed to support Transamerica brought substantial covering in that stock, which rallied more than 2 points after opening unchanged, on a sale of 12,000 shares. There was particular weakness in a few specialties, notably Abraham & Straus, off 17 points, and Burns Bros. A, which added 10 points to last week's drop of 28. New York City tractions were strong in response to an unverified report that a tentative plan for the long-delayed transit unification had been agreed upon.

U. S. Financial Report Out.

The Government's quarterly financial operations, including income tax payments and the Treasury financing, together with dividend and interest payments, involved a monetary turnover of between $1,700,000,000 and $2,000,000,000. It was said that the Treasury overdraft, which normally exists until the payments are collected, would approximate $20,000,000, in which the New York City banks were taking some participations.

Firmness of demand loans at 2½ per cent, today's renewal figure, was believed to be temporary, and was largely ascribed to recent withdrawals by local banks seeking to strengthen their cash positions. Time money was slightly higher, but little importance was attached to this because of the small demand.

Some cautious encouragement was derived from week-end trade reviews, particularly that of the Federal Trade Council, which estimted 1930's world foreign trade, with allowances made for price reductions, would be only about 8 per cent less than last year. Two or three private commentators reported the presence of indications that the depression was scraping bottom and that the way had opened for increasing activity in certain directions.

Cotton Again Declines.

It was the fifth successive day of the decline of cotton. Active covering and buying orders from the trade moved the market up from the lows, at which the spot month was quoted as low as 9.23 cents a pound. Quotations were, of course, the lowest in fifteen years.

Failure of the Brussels sugar conference to reach an agreement unsettled the New York market sharply and futures closed 9 to 11 points lower. The January option touched 1.21 cents.

Foreign exchanges sagged. The revolt in Spain sent the peseta about one-fifth of a cent lower, but losses in other European rates were nominal.

Strength of corn, which was up 1⅜ to 1¾ cents a bushel at the close, reflected small contract deliveries, smaller receipts and unfavorable weather. Wheat was unchanged to a cent higher.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—A further decline at the opening of cotton here today under a continuation of last week's selling pressure brought active covering and trade buying. Rallies followed with March selling up from 9.56 to 9.94, or 9 points net higher, but offerings increased at the advance and prices lost a good part of the gain under renewed pressure with March closing at 9.64. The line of the market was easy at a decline of 35 to 39 points.

The opening was easy at a decline of 17 to 20 points, with the active months soon showing net losses of 22 to 27 points under liquidation of old long accounts which appeared to be combined with selling of specific months. Weakness in Liverpool and the lower openings in the cash market were contributing factors on the decline which appeared to bring on additional stop orders and the trade. This caused the break at 9.22 for December and 9.38 for May contracts new low movement and resulted in the lowest prices of during the day. There was very heavy buying of the nearby months and certain business was reported in the cash market. Reliable reports of the sale which expressed it was to Liverpool and 30,000 for May buying. Although the market has not been active since the break, some cotton came on a little prices however, and the market was weak and unsettled again during the hour with new December touching 9.19 and May at 9.90 or about 28 to 31 points off from the best prices of the day.

Buying of the months by brokers who are sometimes credited with trading for the cooperative interests are to rumors current in the market as to those interests opening out. Such rumors were not confirmed and the advance from the low levels of the morning was attributed largely to a strengthened technical position following recent drastic declines and increased trade buying. Cotton bought early seemed to be coming out on the late decline when there was a renewal of Southern selling and sentiment was probably unsettled by the failure of the stock market to fully hold advances from the early decline.

Liverpool cables reported hedging and general liquidation in that market and said business in cotton cloths and yarns were disorganized with producers losing ground. Exports today 29,894, making 3,605,831 so far this season. Port receipts 36,248. U. S. port stocks, 4,160,584.

U. S. GOVERNMENTS RISE AS SALES GAIN

DOMESTICS ARE SOFTER

New York, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—United States Government obligations and the loans of New York traction companies rallied briskly in the bond market today in the most active session in two months.

Domestic corporate obligations were irregularly lower with losses somewhat smaller than last week. A handful of obligations reversed their recent trend, but the preponderance of changes remained on the downside.

Pronounced softness developed in South American issues where the dips in some instances carried government issues below the level reached on the decline several months ago when hysterical liquidation was influenced by revolutions and other political disturbances. The market was attributed to the nervousness among American investors influenced by the Spanish political situation and the attention called to the economic picture in Bolivia by the arrival here of a commission seeking to adjust interest payments on $60,000,000 in loans.

Changes in Latin-Americans.

Bolivian governments dropped 1 to 3 points, all to new lows for the year, the 8s suffered the sharpest decline, closing at 47, off 3 on the day. Argentine governments sagged and pressure against Chilean obligations forced a half dozen loans of the government down from 1½ to 2 points. There was mild selling in Colombian, Uruguayan and Peruvian issues and Brazilian 6½s and several municipals joined the decline.

Standard European governments maintained a fairly steady tone, and changes were fractional. Industrial and municipal bonds were heavy.

Italian 7s rallied 2½ points and closed 4 points above its year's low, reached last week. All the outstanding Kingdom of Belgium external loan 8 per cent gold bonds due February 1, 1941, have been called for redemption at 107½ as of February 1, 1931, it was announced tonight. A total of $16,875,000 are outstanding. Last June the Government redemmed $32,000,000 Belgian 7½s. The 8s closed at 107¾, the year's low, compared with a 1930 peak of 111½.

Institutional Buying Cited.

Heavy institutional buying was believed responsible for the bullish tone displayed by United States Governments. Both Liberties and short-term Treasury issues were very active. Liberty 3½s duplicated its year's high and every bond in the group advanced, with Treasury issues showing the largest gains. Treasury 4s rose 14-32ds.

The renewed buying interest displayed in New York traction companies' obligations was attributed to a report which was later denied officially, that an agreement had been reached for merger of the lines into one system. Interborough Rapid Transit 5s rose 3 points, Manhattan 1st 4s, 7, and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit 6s were up nearly 2.

Declines of 1 to 3 points were sprinkled through the list of corporate domestic issues and established many at new lows for the year. The decline was sufficiently marked to set a new 1930 minimum in the average for 30 bonds.

Curb Review

NEW YORK, Dec. 15 (A.P.).—The rank and file of curb shares bored further into new low price strata today, although a few shares, mostly utilities, were well supported, and closed firm. Transfers aggregated 779,260 shares, the largest since November 11.

Electric Bond and Share was traded in huge volume, but held to a trading range of a couple of points, and closed at 39¾, a net gain of ⅛ of a point. American Gas fluctuated between a gain and a loss of 2 points, and closed unchanged. American Superpower finished ⅛ of a point higher. Central Public Service "A" gained ½, Cities Service Light "A," Niagara Hudson and Associated Gas "A" soared fractionally to new lows, however. Utility Shares dropped 1 to 3. New minimum prices included American and Foreign Power Warrants, Electric Power and Light Warrants, Utility Investment and Duke Power.

Oil issues were under persistent pressure. Cities Service, after an additional sale as low as 52½ per share, just closed at 15¾, off 2. Standard of India broke 2 points at the bottom, and closed 1¾ off. Gulf dropped 3, and Standard of Indiana declined nearly a point. Seaboard Oil and Transcontinent Oil Corp. Warrants led the trading in the recently new minimum issues. Sunray Gas issues also declined. Natural Gas 6% pf. was purchased upward on the way to the top line in months, ending at 101, off 22¼. Bad breaks in these issues, for which there is little market, have been frequent.

In the industrials and specialties Deere closed ⅝ of a point higher and Merritt, Chapman & Scott and Gen Alden Coal gained about ½ point in a few transactions. The main trend, however, was downward. Eagle Chilean Nitrate dropped 3½ points to a new low at 8½. American Cyanamid B sagged a fraction to a new notch. Transcontinental Air Transport sagged a fraction and Aviation Corporation of the Americas declined 2, to the lowest yet. Driver Harris dropped 5 points. Among lightly traded issues Federal Mogul changed hands at 8, off 6½. In the chain stores, Walgreen, David Pender and Daniel Reeves lost 1 to 2 points, all reaching new bottom prices.

JAIL OVERCROWDED, MANY GET FREEDOM

RED CROSS WILL MEET

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The overcrowded condition of the Alexandria City Jail has proved a boon to minor offenders. Judge William S. Snow, in police court yesterday, accepted the promise of eight persons that they would pay their fines in installments, and released them, making the stipulation, however, that his clemency would not be extended to persons charged with violating the prohibition ordinance or those arrested for being drunk.

A large number of persons have recently been fined in police court and have been unable to pay the amount assessed, which has resulted in their being confined to the city jail, which has a capacity of approximately 85 prisoners. There are now just 100 prisoners, and it has been necessary for City Sergt. Richard H. Cox to place cots in the jail corridors to take care of the overflow. Judge Snow, realizing that the forthcoming holidays will probably add to the overcrowding, announced in court yesterday that he would accept the personal bonds of minor offenders in certain cases.

City Treasurer Roger C. Sullivan yesterday forwarded to State Treasurer John M. Purcell a check for $91,250.50, representing the collection of State taxes on capitation, intangible personal property, income, and miscellaneous taxes for 1930. This exceeds the amount collected in 1929 by $18,156.39.

The annual meeting of the local chapter of the Red Cross will be held in the George Mason Hotel at 8 o'clock the evening of December 22, when officers will be elected for the ensuing year and arrangements will be completed for putting on the annual drive for members.

The original intention of the local chapter was to put on its membership drive in December, but this was deferred on account of a conflict with the Antituberculosis Society drive.

The nominating committee of the local chapter of the Red Cross, which is composed of members of the American Legion and representatives from organizations and churches of the city, will meet at 8 o'clock this evening for the purpose of nominating officers for the ensuing year.

A community service will be held by the local Rotary Club today, when three speakers will address the club. Miss Mary Monroe, city health nurse, will address the club for ten minutes, City Manager Wallace Lawrence will outline the problems of the municipality, and Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber of commerce, will give a talk on the intimate relationship of the commerce chamber with the affairs of Alexandria.

SHOOTS SELF

DESPONDENT GIRL WOUNDS HERSELF

PESSIMISTIC NOTE LEFT

Despondent on account of an argument with her boy friend, Miss Louise Sullivan, 21 years old, shot and critically wounded herself yesterday at the home of her employers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Young, 34 West Montgomery avenue, Rockville, Md., according to Montgomery County police.

The girl was discovered by Mrs. Lola Burton, who lives on the floor above the Youngs' apartment. Mrs. Burton heard the girl screaming and went upstairs to investigate. She found the girl on the floor with a load of shot from a shotgun in her abdomen.

After first-aid treatment by Dr. C. E. Hawks, of Rockville, the girl was taken to the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring in the ambulance of Warner E. Pumphrey, Rockville undertaker.

Operation Is Performed.

Dr. J. W. Bird performed an operation on the girl and her sister, Miss Viola Sullivan, of Chevy Chase, D. C., submitted to a blood transfusion in an effort to save her sister's life. Dr. Bird told police las tnight that the girl had a possible chance of living, but that it was very problematical.

Miss Sullivan told Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley and Headquarters Detective Roy Bodmer that she was cleaning the gun when it exploded and wounded her.

A note written by the girl was found shortly after she was taken to the hospital, however.

Note Left by Victim.

The note read: "I don't want to live any longer. I hope I meet you all in heaven. God bless you all. I hope you all a Merry Christmas. Garline Voight, let get everything."

Mrs. Garline Voight, of Virginia Highlands, is a sister of the girl. Her parents live in Orange County, Va.

Police were told that the girl had quarreled with her friend Sunday night, according to the story she told Mrs. Young. The man had accused her of going out with other men, she said. Naturally of a nervous, high-strung temperament, she is believed to have brooded over the quarrel. Ordinarily a good housekeeper, she had failed even to make the beds yesterday morning, although she was seen to carry a bucket of coal into the house about fifteen minutes before the shooting.

THREE OF YOUTHFUL FUGITIVES CAPTURED

ONE CAUGHT NEAR T. B.

Three of the four colored boys who escaped from the Maryland House of Correction at Cheltenham early yesterday morning were recaptured yesterday. Granville Haskell, 18, of Crisfield, and Joseph Johnson, 16, of Cambridge, were taken near Forestville, Md.

Earlier in the day Milton Henry, 18, of Easton, had been captured near T. B. by Roger Oursler, county constable. Only one of the four, Woodrow Wilson, 16, of Princess Anne, is still at large. Police are working on the theory that the boys took the car of Millard Schultz, which was reported stolen from Camp Springs, to make their escape, and later abandoned it.

A man known only as "Fred," who was picked up by Prince Georges County police last week after reports had been received that a crazy man was at large, remains unidentified. He refuses to tell his last name or where he came from, talking wildly on religious subjects.

Pictures of the man published in newspapers here have brought one man from Washington to the jail to attempt an identification, but "Fred" was not the man he sought. Police are anxious to have "Fred" identified so that he may be returned to his home.

A short course for bridge inspectors in the State opened yesterday at the University of Maryland, with addresses by Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the college; H. D. Willar, jr., chief engineer of the State Roads Commission, and Dr. A. N. Johnson, dean of the school of engineering. Classes will continue until Friday, when an examination will be given.

Classroom work will fill the mornings, with lectures and discussions at night. Prof. S. S. Steinburg directs the course, and will conduct classes in mathmatics, concrete structure and bridge inspection. Prof. Ray H. Skelton will lecture on strength of materials, while M. A. Pyle will instruct in surveys and instruments.

Fifty-seven delegates to the Maryland Scholastic rPess Association were guests of the University Friday and Saturday last week, gathering for the second annual convention of the association. They represented publications in 21 schools throughout the State. Washington newspapermen lectured and the delegates were taken through the plant of one Washington paper.

Striving to prevent an epidemic of scarlet fever among school children in the lower part of the county, Dr. A. B. Hooton has quarantined six pupils and one teacher. One child, who had the disease, is reported to have ridden on the school bus before the period of quarantine had expired, and those most closely exposed to the ailment have been confined to their homes.

The teacher is Miss Blanche Ogle, and it is understood that the quarantined children are residents of the Croome section. Dr. Hooton minimised the importance of the outbreak, as there were sixteen cases in the upper end of the county last month, more than have been reported this month. Eleven of the northern cases were in one family.

A second meeting was held last night by the mayor and council of Laurel and officials of the Chesapeake Bay Power & Light Co. in an effort to obtani lower electric rates for the town. The first meeting, held about a month ago, resulted in a deadlock.

Residents of the town point out that Beltsville, only a few miles distant, enjoys much lower rates for its power, bought from the Potomac Electric Power Co., than the Chesapeake Bay firm charges. Lower rates in Laurel will save money for the residents directly and indirectly, through lower taxes for street lighting.

James R. Doyle, who gave an address on L street near Thirteenth street northwest, Washington, will face Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Hyattsville Police Court tomorrow on charges of possession of liquor. He was arrested Saturday on the Baltimore boulevard with ten cases of alleged liquor by County Policeman Ralph E. Brown. Judge H. J. Moffat held Doyle in bond of $1,000.

Farmers and land owners who attempt to save their woodlands from the attacks of Christmas greens collectors will have the cooperation of the State department of forestry. The department has broadcast a bulletin which states the laws prohibiting cutting of evergreens without the permission of property owners.

In addition, permits to sell their wares will be given persons who obtain their stock legally this year. Posters to be put up on woodlands, giving notice that trees are not to be taken, will be furnished landholders by the department. The Federated Garden Clubs of the State are cooperating with the forestry service in an attempt to stop thefts of Christmas greenery.

NEW SANITARY CODE IS NEAR COMPLETION

Montgomery County Health Officer and Attorney at Work on Details.

MERCHANT HELD SUICIDE

Completion of a sanitary code for Montgomery County in accordance with a recommendation of the Montgomery County Civic Federation is rapidly nearing, it was announced yesterday by Dr. William T. Pratt, county health officer, who is preparing the code in conjunction with Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners.

The code probably will be submitted to the Civic Federation for approval early in January, Dr. Pratt said, and if it is approved, to the county commissioners for enactment as an ordinance. The commissioners have full power to promulgate such an ordinance, Capt. Cissel's researches have revealed.

One of the outstanding features of the ordinance would be the control of milk production and distribution in the county, Dr. Pratt pointed out. While milk which is shipped to Washington is necessarily handled under regulations promulgated by the Washington health department, milk which is sold in the county does not have this safeguard in many instances. Compulsory testing of all herds for tuberculosis and inspection of all conditions surrounding the handling of the milk will be supervised. One of the important steps will be the health tests for those who handle milk. Thirteen cases of typhoid fever about five years ago were traced to a clerk in a store who sold milk. The man was a germ carrier, although he himself was in perfect health, the doctor said.

Such inspection and supervision will provide a great safeguard for the people of the county, the doctor said.

In addition to the milk control, the ordinance will provide for control of nuisances, such as trash dumps which are not actually deleterious to health, but which are unpleasant. Other matters to be regulated will include ventilation and living conditions in tenements and lodging houses, plumbing, keeping of animals and establishment of cemeteries.

A coroner's jury has decided that W. Harrison Dickerson, well-known Dickerson mercilant, died from a bullet wound which was self-inflicted. Justice of the Peace Lloyd Grubb acted as coroner. The evidence was reviewed by State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr.

The unconscious form of the merchant was found stretched across his bed Sunday by his wife, about an hour after the shooting. Mr. Dickerson, who is believed to have been despondent because of ill health, placed the muzzle of the pistol in his mouth and fired the bullet into his brain. His tightly clenched lips are believed to have muffled the report, which was not heard by his wife and daughter, who were downstairs.

He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Dickerson; a son, Edwin Dickerson, a law student in Baltimore; two brothers, Edwin Dickerson, prominent Baltimore attorney, and Milton Dickerson, and two sisters, Miss Edith Dickerson, and Miss Lillian Dickerson. All except the widow and daughter, live in Baltimore.

Taxes which were due July 1 are being paid about the same as usual, according to County Treasurer J. Forest Walker, but several thousands of dollars are still due. He issued a statement yesterday calling attention to the law which requires property which has not had its taxes paid by January 1 to be sold at auction in payment of taxes.

Advertisement of property for taxes causes a considerable increase in the tax cost, which must be paid as well as the taxes. The sale of property for taxes takes place the second Monday in April.

Any persons who have not received tax bills are warned to get in touch with the treasurer's office at Rockville immediately, as failure to receive a tax bill does not alleviate the costs of advertisement or sale for taxes.

The second annual athletic night of the Montgomery County Federation of 4-H Clubs will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the gymnasium of the Rockville High School, it was announced yesterday by Albert A. Ady, assistant county agricultural agent, in charge of 4-H work. The various events will be participated in by 4-H members from Baltimore, Cecil, Frederick and Howard Counties, with a basket ball game between Baltimore and Montgomery Counties the big feature of the evening.

In addition to the basket ball there will be dodge ball, shot, bag and three-legged races, pie eating and milk drinking contests.

Those who are assisting in staging the affair are: Josiah W. Jones, president of the Montgomery County Farm Bureau; Otto W. Anderson, county agricultural agent; F. Bernard Welsh, Rockville attorney, and Ralph Walker, C. Merrick Wilson, Stanley Stabler, Charles Hines, Dorsey Howes and George Stiles, 4-H Club members.

An open meeting of the Cabin John Park Volunteer Fire Department will be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the Glen Echo-Cabin John School. Plans for the proposed new fire house will be exhibited by the building committee and discussed.

Among the speakers who have been invited are J. Fred Imirie, chief of he Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department; County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, in charge of the Western suburban district; a representative of the District of Columbia Fire Department, and E. N. Maxim, of Cabin John Park. The speakers will be introduced by Charles E. Benson, president of the department.

It is expected that plans for the formation of a woman's auxiliary will be discussed at the meeting. The entertainment committee includes H. S. Williams, chairman; Joseh Blandford, John Lynch, Alden A. Potter, J. Reugles and E. L. Starry.

The Rev. J. J. Callaghan, pastor of St. Martin's Church, Gaithersburg, will conduct a meeting of the Catholic Evidence Guild tonight in the auditorium of the church school. Miss Alice Donnelly, of Washington, and Miss Mary Rome, of Germantown, will give a musical progam.

MAYOR AND COUNCIL CLASH ON CONTRACT

500 MEN PUT TO WORK

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 15.—Mayor Thomas W. Koon and Councilman Joseph H. Griffin, commissioner of streets and public property, clashde in the city council today over a resolution which Mayor Koon called a "slap in the face." He served notice he would take no further part in the construction of the auxiliary dam at Evitts Creek, but left it in the hands of the council as long as the offending resolution was allowed to stand.

The resolution says no contract shall be made or consulting engineer engaged without getting the specific approval of the council. Mayor Koon and Councilman Wertheimer voted against th resolution and Councilmen Griffin, Shearer and Blye voted for it.

Mayor Koon said the resolution intimated he had entered into some covert or secret understanding about the employmnet of an engineer, which, he insisted, is not true, and his honesty was impugned. He further decalred that a few days ago the council had instructed him to enter into communicaiton with consulting water engineers with regard to proposals fo rsupervising work. He denied the council was to be ignored.

To relieve the unemployment situation here, additional men were put to work today in clearing the 1,800-acre dam site. Five hundred are now employed.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

If an American administration did things the Russian way—

INITIAL EPISODE.

THE administration, annoyed by the stock market collapse of 1929 decided to show that it was all due to a plot against the Republican party.

SECOND EPISODE.

Eight (8) prominent American citizens are arrested (by invitation) as the plotters. Over a Nation-wide radio hook-up they are announced as:

1. Roger Babson.
2. Prof. Irving Fisher.
3. Arthur Brisbane.
4. Andrew Mellon.
5. Former Secretary of Labor Davis.
6. Nicholas Longworth.
7. Representative John Q. Tilson.
8. Senator Smoot.

They are charged as follows:

1. Conspiring to cause the famous alleged October-November stock market break of 1929.

2. Issuing propaganda to spread the impression that there was such a break.

3. Perfecting the plan by which false data was spread to create an impression that the country would possibly suffer from a business depression under a Republican administration.

THIRD EPISODE.

The trial is held immediately in the main hall of the National Broadcasting Co., with Graham McNamee, Ted Husing, Ford Frick, Floyd Gibbons and Bill Munday as judges.

The prosecuting attorney is the Hon. Simeon E. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee. In the rush to plead guilty and tell all, nineteen innocent bystanders are injured.

EXCERPTS FROM THE TESTIMONY OF THE ACCUSED.

ROGER BABSON—I am guilty. As far as a defense is concerned, I haven't a leg to stand on. There was no excuse for even an alleged stock market decline. I issued my famous warning that prices were too high just to cause trouble for the Republicans. I desire to be shot over a national hook-up.

Prof. Fisher—There was really no market break. It is a myth created in no small measure by those charts of mine. Oh, what a wretch I am!

Arthur Brisbane: I deliberately overworked that "Don't Sell America Short" slogan at the suggestion of Germany, France, Czechoslovakia, Italy and Baffins Bay. I knew, of course, that it would cause trouble. I feel very much ashamed and would like to be executed through WEAF.

Andrew Mellon: There was no market collapse and there is no business depression. I should have scotched the rumors long ago. You may fire when you are ready, Gridley.

Former Secretary Davis: There is no business depression and no unemployment. It must have been something else. All I ask is a quick trial for issuing statistics to the contrary.

FOURTH EPISODE.

THE judges are out five minutes. They find the market decline, business depression and unemployment to be myths for which the accused were responsible. The defendants are sentenced to be executed by a firing squad.

President Hoover, the Radio Corporation of America and the Republican national committee thank the judges for a highly just decision, but pardon the prisoners over 32 radio stations.

FOLLOWING INSTRUCTIONS.

It is the defense of a certain husband, who has been lounging around the house in a state of inebriation for months following certain stock market purchases, that he is obeying the orders of his broker to "sit tight."

Add smiles: As wrong as a brokerage office forecast of the day's probable market trend.

NO CHANGE.

THE Government dry chief announces that Uncle Sam will no longer put poison in his alcohol, but will use a substitute, which will taste like a combination of bad eggs and garlic.

"Well," says Elmer Twitchell, "anything will be an improvement over the liquor I've been getting lately."

Miss Ruth Nichols flew from coast to coast in 13 hours 22 minues, which is only a few seconds longer than it takes the average woman to go gift-hunting through a department store.

MEMORIAL TO DEAD OF WAR APPROVED

Work on Arlington County Monument to Start in Near Future.

CHILDREN ENJOY TREE

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Approval of the County Board of Supervisors for the erection of a memorial by Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, to the men of Arlington County, who gave their lives in the World War, was given yesterday.

The monument, which will be of Falls Church pink granite, was designed by A. F. Thelander, Arlington County architect. It will be placed in the circle at the intersection of Wilson boulevard and Clarendon avenue, at Clarendon.

According to George F. Ricker, commander of the post, the erection, which will be under the supervision of L. C. McPherson, will be started as soon as all material can be delivered. The monument will be 11 feet high, will provide space for the placing of bronze tablets bearing the names of the twelve Arlington County men who were killed, and the name of the local post.

Herbert Smith, chief of the Clarendon Fire Department, appeared before the board and requested that a hook and ladder be purchased. He pointed out that no department in the county is equipped with ladders and that should one of the school buildings, any business house or home be on fire, the firemen would be helpless to reach the roof of the buildings.

Chairman Edward Duncan gave assurance that after the first of the year consideration would be given to the request.

Approving the plans for the new concrete bridge at the county line on Mount Vernon avenue, the board authorized the calling for bids after the plans are approved by the city of Alexandria. The bridge being partly in the city of Alexandria, both the city and the county will bear the cost. The estimate given by Engineer C. L. Kinnier was $12,000.

A letter from the National Capital Park and Planning Commission asking that a study of traffic conditions be made with the location of 26 stations in the county at a cost of approximately $1,000 to the county was read by Engineer Kinnier. No action was taken by the board.

Christmas cheer was brought into the hearts of more than 40 unfortunate children of Arlington County, wards of the County Welfare Board, as they were ushered into the gymnasium of Arlington Hall, Girls College, last night, and as they saw the huge Christmas tree provided by the faculty and students of the college.

Surrounded by the students and more than 200 persons, Capt. A. F. Vaughan, chaplain at Fort Myer, who played the part of Santa Clause, appeared. He distributed to each child a large box or basket filled with toys and other articles. In addition, each child was given a large stocking filled with candies and fruit.

The children were brought to the college under the direction of Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, superintendent of the Arlington County Welfare Board.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Washington-Lee High Scholo will hold its December meeting in the school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Louis A. MacMahon, of Clarendon, is announced as the principal speaker.
